Province Has Record Surplus

Highest in the history of the province, an over-all surplus of $10,310,856 for the fiscal year ended March 31 is shown in a report on the public accounts of the provincial government issued Friday by C. K. Hucksvale, provincial auditor. The surplus for the previous year was $5,883,800.

An interim financial report for the first quarter of the 1946-47 fiscal year, covering the three month period ended June 30, shows a deficit of $2,313,509. This resulted after the province had made a payment of $3,337,982 under its debt refunding scheme.

Before providing for $1,506,122 for the post-war reconstruction fund, there was an operating surplus of $13,153,530.

The report disclosed that liquor profits for the year amounted to $8,125,156, compared with $5,000,000 estimated from this source. The gasoline and fuel oil tax yielded $4,463,-196, well ahead of the estimated $3,500,000, or an increase of $963,196.

Public accounts in recent years have shown the over-all surpluses as follows:

1937 -------	$ 77,832
1938 -------	2,768,066
1939 -------	3,027,191
1940 -------	2,487,850
1941 -------	4,350,993
1942 -------	7,248,420
1943 -------	6,363,636
1944 -------	6,690,531
1945 -------	5,883,800
1946 -------	10,310,856

Operating of the Alberta Government Telephones in the 1945-46 fiscal period shows a surplus of $669,651 transferred to deficit account. In the previous fiscal year, the surplus was $294,295.

The reports disclose the over-all surplus for the fiscal year was boosted by $2,908,983 received from the dominion under the dominion-provincial tax suspension agreement. The amount due at March 31 was received at an earlier date and included in the revenues for the 1945-46 fiscal year.

Treasury branch depositors' account, excluding province of Alberta revenue and trust accounts, amount to $23,417,675, according to the public accounts. The province is said to be offset by amounts held in trust account in the Imperial bank, cash on hand at treasury branches or in transit, Dominion of Canada debentures and loans and advances.

Details of Revenue

Details of revenue, income account, show that actual revenue for the year amounted to $40,915,956, which was $10,949,223 more than had been estimated.

From automobile and truck licenses and garages $3,192,257 was received. This was $344,507 in excess of estimates. Succession duties pro-

Wallace Urges Clear Policy To Keep U.S. Out of War

Britain Annexin g German Machinery

FRANKFURT, Germany, (Reuters)—Eighty tons of machinery and machine parts from the Wuestemberg machine factory at Oberesslingen are being shipped to Britain this week, American military government headquarters announced Friday. This first consignment to a western power is based on the allocations made by the inter-Allied reparations commission in Brussels.

Tobacco Tycoon, G. W. Hill Is Dead

NEW YORK, (AP) — George Washington Hill, 61, who rose from a $5-a-week helper in his father's tobacco firm to president of the American Tobacco company, died Friday at his fishing camp in Matapedia, Que.

Announcement of his death was made here by the company. He had been ill for a short time but the cause of death was not announced.

Mr. Hill made the tobacco business his life work and rose to become one of the highest paid corporation executives in the world, averaging more than $400,000 annually for years as president.

He earned $5 a week when he joined the company at the age of 20 and once disclosed that his salary and bonuses netted him $6,500,000 between 1926, when he became president of the firm, and 1939.

An advertising man at heart, Mr. Hill reputedly spent more money advertising a single product than anyone in history—around $200,000,000 by 1944. In a single year his advertising outlay was $20,000,000.

Hit by Speeder, Worker Is Killed

Mike Ziniuk, 47, of 12853 132 st., struck by C.N.R. speeder, was killed in a rail accident at Mile Seven, just west of the city limits, about 4:50 p.m. Thursday.

Police and railway officials said Ziniuk, a section hand, was struck while a westbound freight train was passing the speeder a half mile east of Bisset station. Joe Makovich, section foreman, and two helpers were operating the speeder, and reported that the smoke and dust from the freight train blinded them, leaving them unaware of Ziniuk's presence on the siding until the speeder struck him.

Ziniuk had been left to clear brush near the C.N.R. right-of-way near Mile Seven, and the speeder was returning to pick him up when it took to the siding to pass the mainline freight train.

It is likely an inquest will be held

NEW YORK, (AP)—Commerce Secretary Wallace told a mass meeting Thursday night British "imperialist policy" in the Middle East, combined with "Russian retaliation" would lead the United States into war unless a clearly-defined United States foreign policy is formulated.

Mr. Wallace told a Madison Square audience, "it is essential that we look abroad through our own eyes and not through the distorted eyes of either the British foreign office or a pro-British or anti-Russian press."

"I am neither anti-British nor pro-British — neither anti-Russian nor pro-Russian," the commerce secretary said.

"But to make Britain the key to our foreign policy would be in my opinion, the height of folly."

A "get-tough-with-Russia" policy would result "only in a situation where "the tougher we get, the tougher the Russians will get," Mr. Wallace contended. "The United States must recognize she had no more business in the political affairs of Asia, America, Western Europe and the United States.

"We may not like what Russia does in eastern Europe," the commerce secretary said. "Her type of land reform, industrial expropriation, and suppression of basic liberties offends the great majority of the people of the United States. But whether we like it or not the Russians will try to socialize their sphere of influence just as we try to democratize our sphere of influence. . . ."

Controversy Expected Over Wallace's Speech

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Diplomatic authorities frankly predicted Friday that the Commerce Secretary Wallace's foreign policy speech will stir a hornet's nest of controversy over United States-Soviet relations.

Despite President Truman's assertion that no departures from established United States foreign policy were involved there was wide speculation that it might also result in a sharp split between Mr. Wallace and State Secretary Byrnes, now at the Paris peace conference.

About four hours before Mr. Wallace spoke, Mr. Truman told his press conference he approved of the speech. He said he did not consider it involved any departures from the policies of Mr. Byrnes but rather was exactly in line with those policies.

Since State Secretary Hull's visit to Moscow in the fall of 1943, American policy in the main has opposed the division of the world into spheres of influence.

Mr. Wallace, however, declared that the United States should recognize "that we have no more business in the political affairs of eastern Europe than Russia has in the affairs of Latin America, western Europe and the United States.

Nationalist Gains Reported in China

PEIPING, (AP) — Chinese government troops have scored four smashing successes in Central China, including capture of Communist army headquarters for eastern Hopeh province at Tsunhwa, 90 miles northeast of Peiping, independent press dispatches said Friday.

The Catholic newspaper Social Welfare said government troops under Gen. Fu Tso-Yi captured Tunning and Fengchen, two Communist strongpoints north of long-besieged Taiyun, government railway city 150 miles west of Peiping.

Four Chinese newspapers carried dispatches saying government troops had captured Chifeng in Jehol province.

Two Famous Generals Renew Friendship at Historic Spot

On the eve of his departure for the United States, after completing a cross-country tour of Canada, Field Marshal Montgomery paid a visit to Viscount Alexander, governor-general of Canada, in Quebec city. Monty was the guest of his former companion in the Middle East campaigns of the last war. He stayed with the governor general in the historic Citadel, wartime meeting place, on one occasion, of former Prime Minister Churchill and the late President Roosevelt. Above Monty is shown with the governor-general and Lady Alexander in the Citadel.

Claim Soviet Forms Cartel in Germany

BERLIN, (Reuters) — A well-informed German source said Thursday there is documentary evidence to show that for two months the Red army has been developing the world's greatest cartel in its zone of Germany.

He showed a secret list of 50 businesses and five "kombinats" (groups of plants) already seized by the "sowjetische industrie gesellschaft" (Soviet industrial company), reported to be owned 51 per-cent by the Soviet and 49 percent by Germans.

Alexander Quits Parley in Huff

PARIS, (AP)—A. V. Alexander, Britain's first lord of the admiralty, walked out of the peace conference military commission Friday during a two-hour debate with the Slav state group on inviting Albania to make a statement on the Italian treaty.

"I despair of leading this commission in the path of common sense," he said just before a vote was taken.

By a vote of 15 to four, with one abstention and one absent, it was decided to invite Albania to appear and voice her comments without any time limit or other restrictions.

Mr. Alexander had argued that Albania should have only half an hour to speak on the military provisions of the Italian treaty and should be notified beforehand that the commission already had voted down several Yugoslav amendments that matched Albanian proposals.

France, Greece and the United States voted with Britian against the proposal. A British representative remained behind for the vote. Belgium abstained. Brazil was absent.

An Australian delegate to the peace conference said Friday the United Nations security council was in disrepute through arbitrary use of the veto power, and should not be permitted to govern the proposed free territory of Trieste.

"The use of the veto power in the security council has been arbitrary, irresponsible and dictatorial and has brought the council into disrepute throughout the world," said Col. W. R. Hodgson, who has served as a delegate to the council.

"It would make the Trieste port question a threat to world peace."

More Ration Books Are Stolen in East

GRAND FALLS, N.B. (CP)—First theft of No. 6 ration books in the Maritimes was reported Thursday night from Drummond, where a package of 50 was stolen Sunday shortly after distribution of the books to the public began in the parish hall.

The theft occurred while about 25 persons were in the hall during a brief absence of the official in charge of the distribution. Ration books also have been stolen in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Russian Sees Offensive Aim In Naval Policies of U. S.

MOSCOW, (AP)— A Russian admiral writing in Pravda asserted Thursday United States naval policy was clearly "offensive" in character and showed "an ever-increasing tendency to American politics toward world rule."

Rear Admiral Schwede, in the official Communist party newspaper, charged the United States with attempting to maintain farflung "secret bases" and said its "defence line" now ran from 6,000 to 7,500 miles from United States territory.

Meanwhile the government newspaper Izvestia, in a dispatch from Copenhagen, accused Britain of not only taking the output of armaments plants operating in British-occupied Germany, but also of dismantling scientific research institutes and removing their devices and personnel to England.

A Tass dispatch in Izvestia asserted the United States was holding units of the Hungarian fleet in the Danube river despite pleas of the Hungarian government for the United States to maintain huge air and naval bases in the North Atlantic (Iceland and Greenland) and in Canadian North Pacific areas.

Admiral Schwede asked what "threats from the north" caused the United States to maintain huge air and naval bases in the North Atlantic (Iceland and Greenland) and in Canadian North Pacific areas.

Hit Black Market In Men's Shirts

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A country-wide crackdown on alleged black market dealings in textiles, including men's shirts, was disclosed Thursday by the justice department. Pursuing voluntary tips, government agents are investigating 500 complaints a day, and divided reported to have diverted millions of yards of textiles into illegal channels.

Justice department officials also said the materials involved range from the raw state to finished goods, including shirts, pyjamas and women's dresses.

"This illegal market has contributed materially to the present shortage of some types of clothing," he declared.

A special grand jury is in session in New York to receive evidence now being assembled by government agents.

Two types of practices are the principal targets of the drive:

1. Diversion into the black market of cotton textiles at prices above Office of Price Administration ceilings.

2. Frauds in connection with priorities. This involves obtaining textiles by representing that they will be used to manufacture certain goods and using them for other more profitable items.

Savings Bond Plan To Start Oct. 15

TORONTO. (CP)—Canada savings bonds will go on sale Oct. 15 to private individuals in response to public demand, Ottawa officials of the Bank of Canada said Thursday at a meeting of the Ontario chapter of the Canadian Industrial Editors association.

The meeting was told a bank survey showed 82 percent of war bond purchasers wished to be able to buy bonds in packages. The bonds are to be in $500 and $1,000 denomination. Another details will be announced later.

Jewish Gangsters Loot Two Banks

JAFFA, Palestine. (AP)— Armed bands, who police said were believed to be Jewish Stern gangsters, robbed the Jaffa and Tel Aviv Ottoman banks in two daring daylight raids Friday.

A dozen men walked into the Tel Aviv bank flourishing pistols and tommyguns, scooped up £1,500 ($6,000) in cash and then disappeared on foot.

In the Arab city of Jaffa, a similar band ran afoul of Arab civilians and the gunfire of Palestine police. Two Arab civilians were killed, one Arab temporary police officer was critically wounded, six Jews were arrested and all of the £500 ($2,000) loot was recovered.

The attack was accompanied by at least one diversionary oil bomb explosion and a barrage of machine-gun fire from a moving automobile in the scene. David Douglas Duncan, photographer for Life magazine, witnessed the incident. He expressed belief at least three civilians were killed by bullets from the automobile.

"The moving automobile right next to me was killed outright and another man on the other side was badly shot up," Duncan said.

British military authorities declared a complete curfew in Jaffa and Tel Aviv.

LONDON, (CP)— Arab and Jewish sources agreed Friday that only a major swing in Britain's approach to settlement of the explosive question of Palestine's future can save the current London Conference from "total failure."

As delegates to the conference —which is being boycotted by Palestine's Jews and Arabs alike—began a three-day recess, Foreign Secretary Bevin and Colonial Secretary George Hall arranged to confer with Prime Minister Attlee on possible modifications in the Anglo-American committee's federalization plan, which was rejected unanimously Thursday by the seven member states of the Arab League.

Face Court Action Over Lakes Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Conrad Saura, business agent of the Canadian seamen's union, sought for more than a week, surrendered to provincial police Thursday and was arraigned before Judge Guerin on a charge of intimidating six crew members of the steamship Beaverton at Cornwall.

After argument between crown and defence counsel, Judge Guerin allowed bail of $3,000.

PORT ARTHUR, (CP) — Bail of $1,000 was ordered forfeited and a bench warrant issued Thursday for the arrest of Lloyd Evans, merchant seaman, when he failed to appear for trial at the fall assizes of the Ontario supreme court. Evans and two other members of the Canadian Seamen's Union, Cyril Lennon, a union executive, and John A. Hicks, were charged with conspiring to seize and hold a man at Keefkin, Ont., during the seamen's strike this summer.

Ottawa Has 'Economies' Office To Avoid Wasting Taxpayers' Cash

OTTAWA. (CP)—In unostentatious surroundings in the dusty, old Supreme Court Canada building, the Government Economies Control division quietly wages a daily campaign against expenditure of furniture and supplies for all government departments.

The campaign is directed by T.P. Murphy in his capacity as director of the Government Economies Control office. Powers of the office, established in 1942, are limited and no one will estimate just how much its work has meant in savings to the taxpayer.

The office examines and reviews all requisitions in the public service of printing, stationary, office equipment and furniture before purchases are made. Mr. Murphy decides whether the requisitions are necessary at all or whether they are necessary in the amount requested.

Besides screening the requisitions received each day, the office has made a review of the 12,000 forms in use in government departments. Through substitution, lower grade quality of papers and standard size cut of forms, initial and recurrent savings have been effected.

Review is made of all requisitions for publications, journals and over-printed stationery received for use of departments and approval is confined to periodicals and scientific journals of use only to departments and libraries of government.

An annual savings of approximately $80,000 in telegraph tolls was effected by extending to all departments the use of teletype systems similar to those used by the munitions and supply department after the outbreak of war.

The office has effected a tie-in with the War Assets corporation so it may be kept informed of any articles in surplus or use by the forces or government departments.

Demands of U.S. Seamen Seen Paving Way to New Crisis

By Peter Inglis

WASHINGTON—Friday the 13th may go down in history as an unlucky day for the economy of these United States—and perhaps for the economy of Canada, too.

Thursday midnight, a few hours after the administration —against the wishes of its Wage Stabilization board — had granted striking A.F.L. seamen their demands for a wage increase over the "safe" level, C.I.O. seamen struck for the same goal.

Nobody in Washington doubts the C.I.O. men will win their raise, inflationary though it be.

Nobody doubts, either, that the granting of these raises to the seamen—raises which the Wage Stabilization board had said would endanger the whole economic stabilization program of the United States—will touch off new demands by labor in every industry.

It is likely to be the story of last winter all over again—successive strikes in all major industries, and then further increase in coal and refrigerators and kitchen stoves which everybody had hoped would soon, at long last, be coming on the market.

If this happens, as it seems sure to, the Truman administration will be the first to feel the consequences.

Nor is it likely that "the United States has not seen the end of its maritime labor troubles.

Normally the A.F.L. maritime unions, which include the bulk of west coast seamen, have had a slightly higher wage level than the C.I.O. unions, which have a majority on the east coast.

The stabilization board's granting of a $17.50-a-month boost to the C.I.O. union last June put them ahead of their A.F.L. rivals. This was one reason why the A.F.L. men held out in the present strike for more than that figure. Now the C.I.O. appears certain to win as much as the A.F.L. has in the strike. So the rivalry will remain.

Meanwhile the other half of the pincers which are closing in on the economic stability of this country—the pressure of prices—is closing in too.

A new drive to kill off the Office of Price Administration in early April, three months ahead of the schedule set by congress, is reported shaping up among senators of both parties.

There are already forecasts that one of the first actions of the new congress when it meets next January will be to scuttle the price control agency for good and all.

Through all this the little man in the building and loan is finding out pending signs from the window reading "We want water." "We want bedding." "Do something about us."

Police were following a carefully mapped three-phase plan announced after an emergency cabinet session Thursday and adhering carefully to the complicated legal rules involving: (1) prevention of further squatting, (2) ejection of squatters, and (3) blockading of some buildings already occupied; and (3) legal action through the civil courts in other cases.

Province to Pay Students' Fees

Registration and students union fees of persons entering the faculty of education at the University of Alberta will be remitted provided they enrol in courses leading to junior, elementary and intermediate teaching certificates, Hon. R.E. Ansley, minister of education, announced Friday.

This step is being taken in an effort to cope with the serious teacher shortage in the province. The period of training for the certificate is one year entitling the holder to give instruction in grades one to nine inclusive for a period of three years.

Mr. Ansley said students taking advantage of the plan will be asked to sign notes and undertake to teach in Alberta for three years. One-third of the amount of the fees will be cancelled for each full year of teaching. Persons leaving the profession before completing the three-year term will be expected to reimburse the government for the portions of the fees rebated.

For prospective students who have already signified their intention to train in the faculty of education, registrations will commence Sept. 16, as those for regular registrations will be received up to Sept. 21.

The minister appealed to young persons who have not yet selected their profession to enter the field of education.

Pursue Campaign Against Squatters

By Jack Sullivan

LONDON, (CP)— London's squatting campaign took on the appearance of an endurance contest between police and hundreds of invaders of vacant London lands Friday as the government drive to end the movement gathered momentum after a slow start.

The situation quieted during the night after the serious approach to violence in the five-day-old squatter invasion occurred when mounted police herded 5,000 angry sympathizers off the street near one occupied building without injury to anyone.

The incident took place in front of Abbey Lodge in St. John's Wood, where approximately 1,000 squatters have taken over unoccupied apartments in a building normally rent for £20 to £25 ($80 to $90) a week.

Both water and light were cut off in the building as police, heeding cut pleading signs from the windows reading "We want water." "We want bedding." "Do something about us."

Police were following a carefully mapped three-phase plan announced after an emergency cabinet session Thursday and adhering carefully to the complicated legal rules involving: (1) prevention of further squatting, (2) ejection of squatters, and (3) blockading of some buildings already occupied; and (3) legal action through the civil courts in other cases.

Millionaire Hughes In Cockpit Again

NEW YORK, (AP) — Howard Hughes, millionaire industrialist and movie producer, landed at La Guardia field late Wednesday night to complete his first cross-country hop since his near-fatal crackup in an experimental plane in California two months ago.

Council Called To Study Strike

Resulting from a conference on Thursday afternoon with representatives of the Alberta Farmers' Union, Mayor Ainlay has called a special meeting of the city council and officials of Edmonton dairies for Friday at 4:30 p.m.

It was claimed by union members that it will be possible to limit the milk shipments to the city, and they asked for assurance the limited supply would be distributed first to hospitals and infants, authorities stated. The A.F.U. officials also claimed they had "most of the shippers in line" to cut off the Edmonton supplies.

Authorities said the union officials asked the city to name a special committee to handle the distribution.

Packing Plants Start Lay Off City Workers

Alberta Farmers' Union non-delivery strike Friday was costing 1,200 Edmonton workers their jobs, the majority, family bread-winners.

As the strike went into its seventh day, R.C.M.P. announced the arrests of four more persons at Leduc, charged with damaging property after they allegedly threw several cases of butter from an Edmonton-bound truck. The four were fined $50 and costs.

Serious new developments in the seven-days-old farmers' strike came with announcements from the four packing concerns that:

Canada Packers will lay-off 400 men and women out of a total of 800 employed;

Burns and Company, Ltd., will release between 150 and 200 out of 400 employes;

Swift Canadian Company, Ltd., will lay-off 270 from a total of 800; and Gainers, Ltd., will give notices to 140 out of a total of 225.

An estimated 200 more employes in trades related to the packing industry, including truck drivers, stockyards handlers and others, also will be thrown out of work.

Some of the employes were laid-off Friday. Others will be laid off Saturday. The remainder were given their notices Friday, the managements having regard to union contracts and selective service regulations.

"There just isn't any work for them to do. More livestock is coming in," was the comment of one packing plant manager as he announced the lay-off.

Convicted in Police Magistrate Cosady court on Tuesday were Harvey Zerb, Ben Canskie, Rubin Mix and Clarence Brown, following charges laid under the Criminal Code by R.C.M.P.

Police said a trucker was bringing a load of butter into the city when he was stopped by pickets. He was asked to turn back and complied with the request. Later, the truck stopped and several men jumped on the back of the truck and threw about 20 cases of butter —56 pounds to the box—into the ditch. Police were called. 11 boxes of "bashed-up" butter were recovered and the four men were arrested. Nine boxes of butter still are missing.

A woman stooking in a field saw the butter being thrown out of the truck, R.C.M.P. said.

Though no arrests have been made at Millet, five shippers from that area who send their milk to Edmonton dairies were prevented from loading it on the train by pickets. Police were called from Wetaskiwin, but the train pulled away before they arrived.

The shippers had attempted to send milk to Edmonton by truck, but the truckers were turned back. They tried to load it on the train, but were prevented from doing so, police residents said.

Despite this shortage from Millet—amounting to about 3,600 pounds—Edmonton dairymen Friday repeated their assurance no milk shortage for the city is foreseen as the bulk of it comes from farmers living in the immediate vicinity of the city. No pickets are active in the city or outskirts.

Milk deliveries in Wetaskiwin, principal hot-spot of the strike, continue to be normal. The shortage of milk in Wetaskiwin on Wednesday stirred a number of ex-servicemen into stating they would take some action themselves if the milk was not forthcoming. A few women

$5,000 Is Returned By 'Careful' Woman

CHICAGO, (AP)—Sol Gertz lost $5,000 in a gutter Friday but got it back from a "careful" woman.

A clerk at a store who saw Mrs. Clara Ashley pick up something from the street outside the store steered Gertz to her rooming house.

"Did you find my $5,000?" Gertz asked.

"I found $3,000," Mrs. Ashley replied calmly, "but how do I know it's yours?"

"Honest, I lost it. Just got it out of the bank . . ."

"Prove it."

After corroboration and Gertz' description of the $100 bills finally convinced Mrs. Ashley, who accepted $200 reward.

Nine New Stamps on Sale Monday; Postal Rate Reduction Is Hinted

TORONTO, (CP)—A four-month wait by Canadian stamp collectors ends Monday. Canada's first post-war "stamp day" when nine pictorial stamps of what has been called the Reconstruction Issue go on sale.

The expectation is that main post offices across Canada will do a land-office business with queues of unusual customers—people who want stamps not solely to carry correspondence but rather to gain the prized first-day covers on which are stamped envelopes with first-day postal cancellations.

Already thousands of advance orders from outside Canada have flooded the post office department in Ottawa, where covers are being serviced for foreign buyers.

Ottawa officials are in prospect for the sale of the nine stamps to stamp speculators—as distinct from true philatelists—figure that postal-rate changes are soon to come and obsolete values will jump in market value.

They point to the fact that the United States is reducing its airmail rate from eight to five cents Oct. 1 and Canada should follow suit.

Speculators foresee a general shake-up in postage fees by reason of this fact there are no new stamps from the one-cent to five-cent denominations.

Total value of the new pictorial set, including one of each denomination or type, is $2.36. A New York dealer has already announced he has stopped taking further orders for covers from American customers because his quota of 2,000 sets has been absorbed. Sets are already quoted in the New York mart at $4.50 for the nine pieces.

broke through picket lines to get milk for their children.

Milk producers in the Red Deer area decided unanimously at a meeting Thursday night to continue to ship milk to the Red Deer creameries. Many pickets were out in Red Deer Thursday and Friday trying to get farmers to withhold their produce, but with little success.

Shortages of eggs and poultry also were being felt in many sections of the province, including Edmonton. Few eggs have been marketed in the last week, it was reported.

Sporadic Outbursts

In one week of sporadic outbursts among farmer-picketers in various parts of the province, there have been 12 arrests and 11 convictions and a total of $347 in fines and damages collected, R.C.M.P. have the strong backing of the attorneys-generals' department in prompt action to put down violence.

Some support for the Alberta strike is coming from Saskatchewan where pickets have been reported at a number of widely-scattered points. Premier Douglas announced the demands of the strikers were "reasonable."

Resignation was announced Thursday of James A. Jackson, of Irma, vice-president and former president of the A.F.U. because of "illness." Mr. Jackson also is a member of the board of directors of the A.F.U. He said his resignation was not to be regarded as a split in A.F.U. ranks, but he did not hold in full harmony with the strike procedure.

The strike also was affecting farmers in B.C. Carloads of fruit shipped to many country towns were said to be going bad because of a lack of buyers.

Fruit Dumped

Charles Water, manager of the Royal Fruit Company here, said Thursday there was no doubt a considerable amount of fruit had to be dumped because of a lack of rural buyers. "If the strike continues, the loss undoubtedly will be heavy," Mr. Water said. One of the company's travellers was stopped in the Barrhead area by picketers and his car was searched.

Support for the strike has come from S. W. Sheppard, manager of the Alberta Livestock Co-operative association. Mr. Sheppard said, "The establishment of a fact-finding board should not be a difficult task and since agriculture is the backbone of industry, Ottawa should surely concede on the points asked for by many of the Alberta farmers."

Warning to farmers of the danger of allowing their dairy cows to dry up has been given by T. H. McCallum, provincial dairy commissioner. After a period, if the animals are allowed to run free, the milk flow stops, and "it is a well known fact that lactation in subsequent periods is not as heavy as previously," he said.

Doubts Backing

In Winnipeg, Trade Minister MacKinnon told newspapermen he doubted that the delivery strike in Alberta had the backing of most farmers in the west.

"It would appear they haven't anything like a majority support of farmers in the west," Mr. MacKinnon said.

Sugar beet deliveries, scheduled to begin in about 10 days, will be passed through picket lines, according to Phil Baker, president of the Alberta Sugar Beet Growers' association. He said the A.F.U. had agreed to exempt sugar beets from orders forbidding deliveries.

Large numbers of cars of grain were loaded Wednesday and Thursday at Peace River points, it was reported Friday. That is about the only area in this territory where threshing is well under way.

As horses are not being slaughtered for domestic food, they were exempted from non-delivery efforts of striking farmers, it was learned Friday. The meat is used for processing of animal food and for export for human consumption in Europe.

The Horse Co-operative Marketing association here Friday confirmed the report that pickets would not interfere with shipments of horses for slaughter. The plant is resuming operations following fire damage.

Fur farmers were said to have been interested in securing the exemption.

Gen. Eisenhower Loses His Mother

ABILENE, Kas., (CP) — Mrs. Ida Stover Eisenhower, 84, mother of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, died Wednesday at her home. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Kansas State college, another son, said Gen. Eisenhower, who was in Washington entertaining Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, was expected in Abilene Thursday.

Private funeral services will be held at the home Friday.

Food Gives Canada Big Trade Balance

LONDON, (CP) — Canadian sales to the United Kingdom—seven times as great as her purchases in the first six months of 1946—are chiefly in the form of food Britain has been unable to purchase elsewhere even if she wanted to.

Board of trade figures show that grain and dairy imports from Canada were 46,291,459 hundredweight with a value of $179,978,020 in seven months of 1946 against 25,807,854 hundredweight worth $47,759,818 in the same period of the peace year 1938.

But, while she benefited from sales of food, Canada otherwise suffered under the British import quota system which restricts overseas expenditures to essentials, plus token imports from a few countries, including Canada, of 20 percent of pre-war sales of certain specified goods.

Britain's home shortage limited the supply of goods Canada could buy. Trade in foods like biscuits, fish and extracts dropped from the value of $4,000,000 in British sales to Canada in seven months of 1938 to $18,646 this year. Coal sales to Canada were valued at 471,377 against £898,422.

This year Canadian meat exports to Britain totalled at £16,262,535 for seven months against £4,052,833 for the same period in 1938. But even in 1946 Canada was in third place as meat supplier, running behind the Argentine and New Zealand. However, Canada provided almost 10 times as much grain and flour as her nearest rival, the Argentine.

Value of Canadian dairy produce and egg shipments in 1938 was £1,754,690 and this year £3,660,609.

Sales of electrical goods and apparatus urgently required in the reconstruction of Britain increased from £38,843 in 1938 to £1,683,442 and wood and timber sales from £4,140,134 to £11,340,523.

Air Cadets to Get Aeronautic Course

CALGARY, (CP) — Royal Canadian Air Cadets in Alberta will have a thorough training in aeronautics, will experience actual flights by air and attend a summer camp, it was decided at the annual meeting of the provincial committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada Thursday night.

Maurice L. Brown, Calgary, was elected president of the provincial body succeeding J. H. Wildman, Edmonton.

A minimum establishment of 1,096 air cadets in the province, Alberta's share in the proposed dominion-wide membership of 15,000, will be sought.

Some Alberta cadets will be among 23 Canadian air cadets who will be flown across the Atlantic next summer for a visit to Britain, C. Douglas Taylor, Montreal, national president of the league, told the meeting. A similar number of members of the British Air Training Corps will simultaneously come to Canada for an exchange visit.

Members elected to the provincial executive include Dr. W. H. Swift, deputy minister of education, A. B. Evanson, both of Edmonton, and J. Cuthbertson, Red Deer.

Province Reports Overall Surplus

duced $1,129,880, compared with an estimated $450,000.

On the other hand, expenditures for the year on income account amounted to $40,268,547, which was $2,218,192 less than had been estimated.

On capital account, net expenditures amounted to $1,336,551, after allowing for capital receipts of $1,284,843. For highways and bridges the sum expended was $1,606,808.

Net funded and unfunded debt at March 31 amounted to $146,219,764, a net increase of $1,587 over the previous year. The funded debt includes $26,219,500 of loans from the dominion government.

Payments Included

The interim financial report for the three months ended June 30 says operating results include income payments arising from the province's debt reorganization program amounting to $3,212,982, being $1,562,982 in respect of interest adjustment coupons due June 1, 1946, less reimbursements from the Alberta Government Telephones, Alberta Wheat Pool, and the various irrigation and drainage districts and $1,650,000 for redemption of province of Alberta debentures. In addition, a sinking fund contribution of $125,000 was made during the period.

The report also points out that receipts for the three months ended June 30, 1945, included $2,027,575 due from the dominion as at March 31, 1945, under the dominion-provincial tax suspension agreement. This year the amount was received earlier and thus was included in operations for the 1945-46 financial year.

Receipts for the three months ended June 30 show a net decrease of $962,273, compared with the corresponding period of last year, says the report.

Main decreases were $1,209,143 in the federal grant in lieu of income tax, $566,226 in lieu of corporations tax, $240,885 in lieu of railway tax.

Increased revenue of $253,696 was shown in motor car licenses, with an increase of $265,227 from the fuel oil tax. There was a gain of $175,000 in liquor profits over the first quarter of the previous fiscal year. Alberta Government Telephone revenue was $362,957 greater than a year ago.

Student-Veterans Seek Army Camp

VANCOUVER, (CP) — Scenes reminiscent of the "occupation" of the old Hotel Vancouver by homeless veterans were enacted here Thursday when executive members of the University of British Columbia branch 72 of the Canadian Legion met in emergency meeting.

The veterans adopted the following resolutions, to be sent to the Legion's provincial command: "Whereas there is still a critical housing shortage in Vancouver, under no circumstances shall Little Mountain camp, or any other usable government building be demolished; further, be it resolved that this camp shall be used for emergency housing for veterans."

A spokesman said executive agreed that the housing plight of university students and their families is still critical and strongly favored they be given the first opportunity to live at the army camp.

Couple in Ontario To Hang for Killing

WELLAND, Ont., (CP) — George and Elizabeth were sentenced Thursday to hang Nov. 12 after an assize court jury found them jointly guilty of murdering Louis Nato.

Nato, a merchant, died June 21 as a result of injuries suffered June 16 when he was found injured on a highway. He died after telling police he had been "taken for a ride" by the two accused.

Mrs. Popowich had been Nato's housekeeper for some time before she married her present husband. She told the court Nato had told her he would do everything in his power to destroy her happiness. She said he wanted her to give up Popowich and return to him.

Issue Clarified In Steel Strike

By John Bird

OTTAWA, — Bargaining unit vs bargaining agency. One central issue in the steel strike was boiling down to that today.

The issue is perfectly clear to the parties immediately involved—the government and the Steel Workers' union. But it may sound like so much "double-talk" to the innocent bystander.

The government says the department of labor will be happy to co-operate with employers and employes in taking a new strike vote in steel, because it regards the recent show of hands whereby its latest proposals were turned down at Hamilton, Sydney and Sault Ste. Marie, as decidedly a minority vote of the workers. But the government wants a vote of all the workers directly involved.

This means the whole "bargaining unit," all the workers directly involved in the dispute who were on the pay-roll at the time when it broke out, including non-union as well as union members, but excluding foremen and men taken on since the strike.

C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steel Workers, Thursday night at Hamilton indicated acceptance of a new strike vote—provided that union members alone were polled the union being the sole "bargaining agent."

If non-union members were to be polled, according to Mr. Millard, then something like the Rand formula would have to be introduced. This provides for a check-off whereby non-members as well members pay dues to the union, though they are not required to join the union, and are given the right to take part in strike votes in return.

Meanwhile there is no indication here that the government will immediately call for a compulsory new strike vote, under an order-in-council permitting the labor minister to take a new poll at his own discretion.

HAMILTON, (CP) — Responsibility for settlement of the steel strike now rests with Labor Minister Mitchell, Eamon Park, Hamilton publicity director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), said Friday.

C. H. Millard, national director of the union, said the steelworkers have gone as far as they can in compromise and now insist that an agreement to arbitrate non-wage issues be one of the conditions of settlement.

A large percentage of the population in 19 Chinese Provinces was reported close to starvation.

Fort at St. Malo Tourist Mecca

ST. MALO, France, (ONA)—Part of Adolf Hitler's famous West Wall which crumbled so quickly in 1944 under the combined blows of Gen. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, will soon become a tourist mecca.

The fortress Hitler built in this little town on the Atlantic coast, and which held out until stormed by the American 83rd Division on Aug. 17, 1944, will be made open to visitors, the mayor promises, as soon as the two miles of its underground cellars are electrically lighted within the next few weeks.

The fortress, which was under Allied fire from the air and sea for more than two weeks, was left exactly in the state it was found when American tank-crews penetrated the inner defences. Blasted casements and gun emplacements are still there as well as quantities of German equipment which have turned brown in the winter snows and rain.

Engineers are only now removing some of the booby traps to make the place safe for visitors.

The mayor made it clear that the municipality declines any responsibility for accidents suffered by visitors who deviate from prescribed tours of the fortress.

A German mess-room remains almost precisely as it was found with various Nazi slogans still on the walls.

Monty Sees Pal Climb in Jasper

JASPER, (CP) — Field Marshal Montgomery on his recent visit to this mountain resort followed a world-renowned climber for three hours—through a pair of field glasses.

The mountaineer, Lt.-Col. Frank S. Smythe, was engaged in one of his current attempts to reach the top of Mt. Brussels and Monty, a personal friend, followed his hazardous ascent with keen interest.

Smythe who has been climbing in the Rockies for the last several weeks, is accompanied by Bruno Engler, Swiss photographer and climber.

He is said to be gathering material for a book.

The English mountain climber, whose conquests include some of the most inaccessible peaks of the Himalayas in Asia, is reported to have described peaks in the Canadian Rockies as the "toughest" he has come across in many years of climbing.

Monty Tells U.S. 'Burn Whitehall' To Repay British for 1812 Raid

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Truman reminded Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery Wednesday that British troops once burned the White House and the hero of El Alamein said he thought we ought to pay for it.

"Maybe," Lord Montgomery twinkled, "we ought to include it in the loan. Or perhaps you'd like to send some American soldiers to burn Whitehall."

The chief of the Imperial general staff called at the White House to pay respects to the president. He and the president carried on an animated conversation.

Mr. Truman told reporters:

"I was just telling the field Marshall the White House was built in 1792, burned by the British in 1814 and remodeled in 1902."

"And I was telling the president," Lord Montgomery said, "that I really feel I must apologize. I feel very sorry about it. And I think we ought to pay for it."

But Mr. Truman balked at the idea of letting American troops burn Whitehall, saying "that time has gone forever."

Washington was captured in 1814 by British troops who burned the Capitol, the president's house, some other public buildings and the navy yard in retaliation for the burning of York and Newark (now Toronto and Niagara-on-the-lake, Ont.) by United States troops the previous year.

May Investigate U. S. Occupation

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A sweeping inquiry into operations of the United States military government in Germany is reported under consideration by the senate war investigating committee.

A member disclosed privately Thursday the committee received testimony in a recent closed door session regarding alleged irregularities among occupation troops, particularly with respect to fraternization.

An unidentified witness was said to have compared conditions in the American zone unfavorably with the German occupation of France during the war.

This testimony, as yet uncorroborated by any others acquainted with the situation, was regarded as only preliminary information.

Weekly Newspaper Membership Soars

HALIFAX, (CP)—Closing out 11½ years as managing director of the Canadian Weekly newspapers association, C. V. Charters of Brampton, Ont., in his last report to the annual meeting of the C.W.N.A. said Thursday that in that period membership had tripled and fees had quadrupled and that the members would "go on to achieve still greater things for the group as well as for themselves individually."

His report showed 236 member papers in 1934, when he assumed office. Today the membership was 611. Fees paid in 1934 totalled $3,158; today they totalled $13,222. In addition 426 of the members contributed voluntarily more than $17,000 to the association's research, promotion and sales department.

His report declared that the association's greatest need is improvement of weekly newspapers constantly in every way possible.

Law is Law

It was a good deal to suppose that the members of the Alberta Farmers' Union could stage a non-delivery strike without some of them lapsing into violence somewhere. Organizations much older, and whose members have been longer disciplined, seldom succeed in wholly preventing such occurrences during the course of a strike in which feelings are sharply aroused.

That the officers of the Union could preserve order everywhere was the less likely because the members comprise only a moderate minority of the farmers in the province. That the majority would yield up their civil rights at the bidding of this minority was not to be expected. They were under no obligation to do so, and could only be compelled to do so by violence and intimidation.

It is entirely within the right of the members of the Union to refuse to sell their products if they want to. These have been created by their own labor and capital, industry and enterprise. They are entitled to hold them off the market, destroy them, consume them, or make what disposition of them they please.

But it is entirely outside the rights of these members, or of any one of them, to refuse to let another farmer sell his products if he wishes to do so. The same democratic principle which accords the Union member a right to with-hold his produce guarantees to another farmer the right to sell his produce, if, when and where he may please. The rule has to work both ways. Only under a tyranny, of the Nazi or similar type, can it be prevented working both ways, and tyranny is the same in effect whether it be political or economic.

Where there have been clashes between Union pickets and non-member farmers who tried to deliver products the officers of the law have intervened. This they are in duty bound to do, and are in duty bound to do if other acts of violence are reported and conclusive evidence is available.

The highways of Alberta belong to the public. They are not the property of any person or any group of persons, farmers or non-farmers, Union members or non-Union members. They belong equally to every person, to no one more than to every other one. To molest any person engaged in his lawful business on the highways is an offence against the law, an offence which cannot and should not be tolerated.

The law authorities and the courts will have clear and strong public support in vindicating these common rights by punishing those who violate them. That is the primary purpose for which governments exist and legal machinery is maintained. There can be no compromise with lawlessness.

This question of rights and the protection of rights aside, there is something else that is worth keeping in mind at this time. When the non-delivery strike has ended—when all the strikes which are tearing at the vitals of Canada's economy are over and done with—the people of Alberta will still have to live alongside each other, in town and country. They will have to do business with each other, to meet in the discussion of municipal and other community affairs, to carry on the ordinary relations and mutual-help of neighbors.

They will do this more easily, with more advantage, and with far greater satisfaction, if there are no lingering memories of wrongs done and slights given in these days of tension.

Time and Tide

The ancient maxim that time and tide wait for no man takes on emphasis in the light of an announcement from the English port of Liverpool.

The value of time all of us can understand, seeing that we all have to fight against it to some extent almost every hour of our lives. But the value of tide is more peculiarly in the province of ship masters and their owners. To them it is a matter of great moment that it costs ships plying out of Liverpool anything from $800 to $2,000 to miss a tide.

One can now begin to appreciate the meaning of Liverpool's becoming a radar-controlled port—the first such in the world. There a radar-control station—one of the boons evolved out of the agony and bloody sweat of war—is being built that will be able precisely to plot the position of every ship within a 30 mile radius at any given second of night or day.

Pilots will be kept continually informed, by this means, of the exact position of every vessel making for Liverpool no matter what the hour or what the weather. And thus savings of millions of money will be effected.

Time - Killing

If the conference at Paris closes down, according to schedule, in time to let the General Assembly of the United Nations open on Oct. 23rd, that will be no fault of Yugoslavia. Its diplomatic marathoner spent four days arguing against the Trieste agreement already reached by the Big Four.

Even the Russian delegates got tired of the torrent of language and said they would vote against his plea whenever Mr. Alex. Bebler could be induced to leave off. But Mr. Bebler talked on, while the conference waited for a chance to vote his proposals out.

Italy of course has as much right to a say in the Trieste settlement as Yugoslavia —and as much right to have its representatives talk on the subject as long as they want to.

The proceedings illustrate the difficulties which block the way to a re-settlement of world affairs. Before conferences or the Assembly, every country on earth, large or small, may raise any question it may please, talk out of all proportion to its importance to other nations. Naturally, it is small countries, like small minorities, which have to be expected to make the most noise and kill the most time in relation to the world importance of their claims.

Clearly, people who want to keep abreast of the slow process of boundary adjustments, and are anxious to have the world "mess" cleared up before they pass on, will have to learn patience.

No More Church Parade

There will be little grief in the British Army over the abolition of the venerable institution of "church parade"—even amongst the padres, with the exception of a few who measured the success of their life work by the size of their congregations. It is learned that the Canadian Army will shortly conform.

It is not of record that a soul was ever saved at a compulsory church parade. On the contrary, the reactions of soldiers not willingly disposed to church going seemed to range from boredom to hostility, while others appeared shocked by the carelessness of the services amounting to irreverence. By contrast, it has been noted that when troops are invited to a voluntary church parade they turn out almost to a man, often in spite of their having been at the compulsory parade earlier in the day.

Apparently the British Army's intention is that padres attached to units and formations shall cease preaching to unhearing congregations and give more attention to their "inhabiters" private needs; that the soul of each soldier will be recognized as an entity in its own right, with its special problems susceptible to their own means of solution.

Whether those in authority canvassed the possibility of abolishing the church parade entirely will never be known. It would have been a disastrously retrograde step amounting to denial of religion. On the other hand, what they have done amounts to their recognition of religion as real, too real to be dismissed in forty perfunctory minutes once a week.

Halifax despatches say military officials there were not sure whether Field Marshal Montgomery was entitled to a salute of guns or not. It may be a sign of the progress of demobilization when there is not one staff officer at Halifax who didn't know all about everything.

Mr. Howe, still the arch-optimist, says that strikes in Canada "will either solve themselves or be capable of solution." So the country is safe again.

The Pink Danube

BY BRUCE HUTCHINSON

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

The future of the Danube, which like the relationship the St. Lawrence bears to North America, has emerged as a formidable source of controversy between the United States and Yugoslavia. It has become one of the most contentious items on the agenda of the peace conference.

"The blue Danube," this mighty river is called in Strauss waltz. It was never really blue but a thick and dirty brown. The common jest of diplomats now is that the Danube has turned pink and is rapidly becoming red. For astride the Danube, or a large part of it, are camped the armies of Russia. Many nations front on the Danube and use its waters for their commerce, but for the moment Russia controls it.

The issue raised by Yugoslav notes and by American policy at Paris is whether the Danube is to remain under any single state's control. It has been an issue in the vortex of eastern European politics for many generations. From the beginning of recorded times efforts have been made to internationalize the river so that the goods of all adjoining countries could move along it on equal terms. But this policy has never been firmly established.

* * *

AFTER THE collapse of Germany in the first World War the Allies attempted to establish enduring international regulation of the river and to this end set up a commission, one with jurisdiction over the upper reaches and the other to control its broader waters, accessible to ocean-going ships. All interested states were represented on these international bodies, which were under the general direction of the League of Nations.

With the growing weakness of the League, Rumania, which bestrides the sea entrance of the river, was able to press its claim for control of the waterway. The revived Germany of Hitler soon began to undermine the whole principle of control and when Germany went to war it soon absorbed this control entirely. The Danube became a part of Germany's internal transportation system, vital to its military machine.

The question facing the peacemakers is whether the Danube is to remain under the domination of any nation. The United States began as early as the Potsdam conference to propose the internationalization of this and other great European rivers on the commerce and it is pressing for this plan at Paris today. But its policy—on which the Big Four could not agree before the Paris conference—cuts clearly across Russia's plans for the development of eastern Europe's commerce.

* * *

RUSSIA HAS opposed the United States' plan to write into the peace treaties clauses guaranteeing free access for all nations to the business of this region, asserting that this is mere imperialism.

If the American plan for a freely-trading world, is repugnant to Russia, so is the attempt to internationalize the Danube. Yugoslavia asserts that the United States is putting unfriendly pressure to this end by seizing its ships on the upper reaches of the river. The United States believes this seizure was covered by the Potsdam agreement and that if it had not taken place the shipping it would have been used to promote exclusive, Russian-controlled trade.

Such disputes do nothing to establish the business of the river, in which the adjoining countries live. The Danube, an essential part of any economic settlement in that region, therefore remains one of the basic issues at Paris and a revealing test of Russia's future economic policies. Is this mighty channel, which has carried men's goods and armies since Roman times, to be used to serve Europe and the world at large or to become an instrument of a Communist economy, cut off from the West? The answer should come soon from Paris.

Today in Europe

By Randolph Churchill

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON—In the United States there is no expectation of solving the housing shortage in less than the next 10 years. But here in Great Britain Aneurin Bevan, minister of health, whose department is responsible for making housing plans predicts that housing "will not be an issue in the next general election."

To justify this prediction, 1,000,000 permanent homes must be built in the next four years. But judging by results so far achieved the outlook is not encouraging.

No doubt the present rate of building will increase, for production cannot be expected to be at maximum efficiency after only a year. Even so, the position is far from satisfactory. The seventh monthly housing report shows 4,441 permanent homes were built during July. Of these, 2,066 were constructed by private firms while 1,475 were built by local authorities. These figures bring the total of permanent homes built since the war to 17,449, of which 10,911 were put up by private firms.

CHURCHILL

These figures reveal that private enterprise is putting up houses—which will be sold—at approximately double the pace of local authorities, all of whose construction will be rented. This has been so in spite of the fact that Mr. Bevan has done all he can to discourage private builders from playing their part in rehousing the nation.

* * *

Under the Housing Act of 1946, the government fixed a scale of subsidies and contributions toward houses erected by local authorities. But it refused to grant a single penny to assist private firms. And Mr. Bevan has gone so far as to notify local authorities that they must build four houses to every one built privately.

Last month George Tomlinson, minister of works, stated the government's aim to the end of the present year is 100,000 permanent homes and 200,000 temporary homes. Unless something is done to accelerate very sharply the present rate of building, this goal will not be achieved.

The story of the government's attempts to house the nation has been one of woeful muddle. During the war 939 brick works were closed, and up to March 5, 1946, 313 of them still had not been granted licences to reopen. The output of bricks this year may be only 40 per cent of the average monthly output before the war, and the demand for bricks for construction work is enormous. Even when the trade was bricklaying have been released from the armed forces to go on to the jobs, but the large number who were employed at brick works have been forgotten. To alleviate the brick shortage, the ministry of works directed a number of tile manufacturers to switch to brick production. The result of this ingenious scheme was that by July of this year the demand for tiles was exceeding production by approximately 1,000,000 a week. There is now a tile famine as well as a brick famine.

* * *

That the British public is exasperated by these delays is demonstrated by the invasion of unused Army and R.A.F. camps by homeless civilians. The discomfort of Nissen huts is preferable to overcrowding in ordinary houses, and the sight of habitable buildings lying empty may drive the public to open appropriation.

The government's reaction has been pathetically inept. Public opinion has been on the side of the squatters. There is even talk of legalizing the whole procedure by letting down an official scale of rents.

Prime Minister Attlee, it is said, some months ago gave directions that unoccupied camps should be made available to homeless people. Under the Churchill coalition government there was a "follow-up department" that saw that the prime minister's instructions were carried out. It seems this procedure has been allowed to lapse, and the squatters have moved in before the bureaucrats found time to carry out Mr. Attlee's wishes.

The Bulletin's Readers Say:

FARMER'S TAXES.

Editor, Bulletin— Our brother the farmer is on strike. He wants parity prices. He has even sanctioned withholding from new born babes and growing children to accomplish his ambitions. How great are the machinations of the human mind. And how infinitely greater is man's inhumanity to man.

Let us try to find the basis for this caterwauling. Since 1939 the farmer has enjoyed top prices for all his products—except maybe wheat, and then he got paid for not planting it. Let us take a look at our city markets. The city dweller forks over a buck seventy-five for a five pound chicken. Fifty cents a dozen for eggs—which is another pet grudge of the farmer—he thinks you should pay him for all his eggs, either good or bad. Fortyfive cents and higher for butter—graded or not. Now the farmer is now that as for fifteen cents a quart for milk. It seems to me that if our friends are not satisfied with $1.35 a bushel for wheat they can profitably turn to other fields of production.

Of course, the real gripe is that the income tax has at last caught up with our friends in the country. A thorough clean up was undertaken this spring by income tax officials, and their nets bulged with struggling fish. They've been getting away with it for years. A nice tidy $4,000 or $5,000 a year profit, and eating good things too, like bacon, and butter—all they want, and not forking over a cent of their income. Now they have to pay back taxes—and they don't like it. I wonder if the farmer is aware that a single person in the cities, making $600 a year forks over income taxes for which he can think of—until his back is breaking. And his head is bloody but unbowed. And why not? Since that a ceiling was placed on office workers wages at the beginning of the war there is a chasm between the labor of the brain and the labor of the hand. He should be living at this hour.

Thinking of 1947

(London Free Press)

The Free Press believes with the Senate Tourist Committee, that "a broadly planned tourist traffic policy has almost unlimited possibilities" and that Federal aid should be made available to an industry which holds such obvious possibilities. If the economy of this North American continent can be stabilized before next summer, it more accommodations can be set up on this side, if we improve our highways and put our holiday message before a larger number of prospective travellers our tourist trade in 1947 should prove large and profitable.

The Road Ahead

BY HARPER PROWSE MLA

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

While the war was still on it was standard practice to refer to the post-war period as "the era of the common man". At that time our general understanding of this phrase was that the "common man" or "average citizen" was to come into his own. He was to get top consideration and all efforts were to be bent towards improving his lot and providing him with a little jam on his daily bread.

But since the war ended the common man has been taking a beating. Special interests and pressure groups of every kind have managed to get concessions for themselves— at the expense of the "average citizen". It is now obvious that if John Q. Public hopes to hang on to his slice of bread, let alone get any jam to go with it, he is going to have to look after himself. Instead of finding himself in Utopia where everybody is trying to make him happy, today he finds himself being victimized by everybody else. It is just about time for the worm to turn.

PROWSE

John Q. Public is the number one name on every sucker list in the country. He pays all the bills. He pays the taxes. He finances the subsidies. He finances the foreign loans. He suffers most from labor-management disputes. He gets kicked around by the expert planners and bears the full brunt of governmental inefficiency and timidity and of individual and group selfishness and stupidity.

* * *

THEORETICALLY of course John Q. Public, the average citizen, runs this country. He elects all the members of the provincial legislatures, and the mayors, reeves, aldermen, councilors and school board trustees who run the municipality in which he lives. Those elegted representatives are theoretically in their positions of trust to get John Q. Public that post-war era he hoped for and was promised.

But when it comes to election time John Q. Public finds he is baulked again. When he goes to vote he finds that he must choose between people who are, practically without exception, all the representatives of this, that, or the other group whose intention is to run the country, not for John Q. Public's benefit, but for their own.

The reason for this is that John Q. Public isn't organized. There are organizations for the prevention of cruelty to animals, organizations to reform drunkards, organizations to foster religious freedom and religious bigotry, organizations to protect farmers, organizations to protect veterans, organizations of every kind to promote their own individual aims and objects usually at the expense of John Q. It is about time John Q. Public realized that until he gets organized himself he is going to be fleeced at every turn by those special groups which are. It is just about time somebody started an organization to protect John Q Public, the average citizen from John Q. Public, the member of a special interest group.

We repeat what we have said before, however: friendship requires two parties, and we have not yet heard of any agency in Russia which exists to promote friendship with Canada.

South America May Become Haven for Many Europeans

By Ernie Hill

SANTIAGO, Chile, (CDN) — New efforts are being made to increase immigration quotas in many of South America's sparsely settled countries.

Disagreements over types of immigrants desired have hampered progress during the past year. But, wary administrations are making headway toward opening opportunities for displaced and discouraged Europeans. Here are the prospects, by major countries:

Chile: A research organization has estimated that the country could support 25,000,000 people if it were properly industrialized and supplied with modern equipment.

Big Fishing Industry

Today, its population is a mere 5,000,000. Chile's 3,000-mile coastline has rich opportunities for Scandinavian and Spanish fishermen and for cannery expansion. Balkan peoples are preferred to develop its southern areas. It already has a scattering of Swiss, Finns and Welsh.

A more liberal immigration program is expected from congress a few months after Chile's new president takes office.

Brazil: With a greater area than the United States, but only one-third of its population, this is one of the most fertile promised lands. Brazil's new administration is working on a more liberal immigration program. Already heavily populated with Portuguese, Spaniards and Italians, Brazil must raise its quotas for other European countries before the influx will be increased materially.

Poles Are Desired

Argentina: This country has vast undeveloped areas and is trying to do something to increase its population. Poles have been particularly desired. A row has been in progress over "selective immigration" for the country. Charges have been made and denied that Argentina wants Aryan stock and will seek to bar Semites.

Peru: A congressional act is under consideration to throw Peru's gates open to Europeans. Before the war, Japanese formed a sizable bloc in Peru, but they are now restricted.

Colombia: Although talking about immigration, Colombia has too many complicated laws on its books to offer much immediate hope for new citizens.

South America's smaller countries also plan to adopt new control laws to increase quotas.

Scarcity of shipping has made widespread immigration impossible and thus has given the countries a chance to work out new regulations.

10 Reported Dead In Greek Violence

ATHENS, (CP)—Government announcements reported Wednesday night that at least 10 persons had been killed in a new outbreak of violence in Greece, and Acting Premier Stylianos Gonatas indicated that extreme leftist leaders might be prosecuted for "anarchy."

The press ministry said that eight "anarchists" equipped with modern weapons killed three civilian policemen in the village square of Kapados, on the island of Mytiline (Lesbos), home of the Greek poet, Sappho.

Maria Felixa Pablos, 20-year-old heiress to a Mexican cattle fortune, is shown leaving Los Angeles for Reno, Nev., where she was married to Cornelius Vanderbuilt, Jr., millionaire author and sportsman.

Rush to Buy Foreign Currency As Inflation Threatens Italy

By Peter Furst

ROME, (ONA)—Even the Yugoslav dinar is rising in value on the currency black market in Rome as the specter of runaway inflation continues to haunt hard-pressed Italy accompanied by steadily rising prices and the falling value of the lira.

Despite the strained Italo-Yugoslav relations over the Trieste controversy, the dinar again came in demand this week as black marketeers and others with accumulated lire sought desperately to obtain any foreign currency at all before the anticipated crash.

Even in Trieste, where it is usually easy to obtain Yugoslav currency, black marketeers were reported asking 350 lire and more for 100 dinars. Informed banking circles explain the phenomenon by the fact that Yugoslavia has been able to stabilize her currency effectively at 50 dinars to the dollar and by the fact also that there is an almost total absence of a currency black market at Belgrade.

Fear Inflation

Virtually no one among the best informed financial circles here now doubts the certainty of imminent, large-scale inflation, and the only differences of opinion are over its extent and consequences.

A brief survey of shops in Rome is convincing enough evidence of the general lack of confidence in the stability of Italian currency following the vast requisition demands on Italy at the Paris conference. Where prices remain at the same level as last week, shopkeepers warn unhesitatingly, "next week will be different." Moreover, hardware stores have announced a 50 percent rise beginning at the end of this week.

Prices Are Soaring

Cameras which sold last week at 60,000 lire ($280, at the official rate) are now selling at 80,000 lire, and salesmen warn that the same camera tomorrow or the next day may reach the price of 100,000 lire. Milk prices are also rising steadily with the prospect that new stocks will be priced two or three times as much as those now on sale.

It is still possible to obtain any kind of foreign currency at the Piazza Colonna, the street-corner "free bourse" in Rome, but every day it takes more lire to get dollars, pounds or marenghi (the gold Napoleon - issued coin ordinarily worth 20 lire). The Swiss franc is the most currently sought after.

Predict World Food Board In Line with Canada's Idea

COPENHAGEN, (CP) — The United Nations Food and Agriculture organization, Thursday approved a committee report on the world food board and it was expected a plenary conference session also would endorse the report.

The effect of conference approval would be to set up a commission of 16 member countries, including Canada, plus Russia, Siam and Argentina, non-member countries, to study details of the board's operations. The board's purposes would be stabilization of agricultural prices and better food distribution to raise world nutrition standards.

It is anticipated the commission will report back in time for the board to be established next year. It probably will take longer to get the actual stabilization and food distribution machinery into operation.

Canadian delegates are pleased with the form of the present commission report. It is based at least in part on Canadian recommendations made publicly and in committee. The report meets Agriculture Minister Gardiner's suggestions for a commission with power to speed action on the formation of the board. Director General Sir John Orr of the F.A.O. will circulate its recommendations to the F.A.O.'s member governments and obtain the views of the F.A.O. executive committee.

Thereafter the report would be examined as soon as possible by an F.A.O. conference committee. The report also meets Mr. Gardiner's suggestion that representatives on the preparatory commission of 16 countries be chosen by their governments as responsible persons experienced in the questions under discussion. Canada's views also were expressed in committee meetings by Dr. G. S. H. Barton, deputy agriculture minister.

The agricultural committee recommended that the F.A.O. approach the United States and Canadian governments on speeding up world production of nitrogen for fertilizer—now world scarce.

The finance committee recommended the F.A.O. budget for its second financial year—July 1, 1946, to Dec. 31, 1947—be $7,500,000.

Bid for Control Yellowknife Gold

TORONTO, (CP)—At a meeting of shareholders of Yellowknife Gold Mines Thursday H.R. Swanson, vice-president of the company who said he was chairman, suspended the meeting until Sept. 17 when he said he would present a report on the motion of a group opposed to the present directorate which asked nominations for direc.

The opposing group then nominated J.W. Tovell as chairman and with Mr. Swanson refusing to take part in the proceedings, nominated Tovell, J.B. Streit, George Woods, Paul Robert and J.F. Willis as directors. After a ballot in which the Swanson group did not participate, Tovell announced the directors nominated had been elected by a vote of 739,466 shares with no shares opposing.

He immediately then passed a motion of the Streit faction that the newly appointed board convene to appoint officers and take steps to secure the books and records of the company, then report to shareholders the position at a meeting to be held Sept. 17. The meeting adjourned.

Later it was announced the board elected by the Streit faction had appointed J.B. Streit president, J.W. Tovell vice-president and Paul Robert as secretary-treasurer.

Emphasizes Harm Done by Strikes

HALIFAX, (CP) — Canada is being "crippled by industrial disputes while the common people suffer," Hugh Templin of the Fergus, Ont., News-Record said Thursday in his annual report as president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers association.

"We now have had 13 months of peace but definitely not of plenty," he told the 300 delegates to the 27th annual C.W.N.A. convention which opened here Thursday. "Things haven't turned out as we expected. Instead of war overseas we have civil war in our own industrial cities. We are being held back now by internal strife," he added.

Smiley Quick Enters Amateur Semi-Finals

SPRINGFIELD, N.J., Sept. 13 - (AP) - Smiley Quick, conqueror of Edmonton's Henry Martell, and three virtually unknown golfers, Thursday survived two more rounds of the amateur championship at Baltusrol and will fight it out in today's 36-hole semi-finals.

Best known of the surviving quartet outside of Quick, the public links champion, was Ted Bishop of Dedham, Mass., champion of New England. The other two were A. Fred Kammer, Jr., of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. and Bob Willits of Kansas City, playing in his first national championship after five years in the navy.

QUICK, WHO SCORED a one-up victory over the veteran Maurice McCarthy of Cincinnati in the quarter-final round, will clash today with Kammer, a former Baltusrol Club champion, who scored an upset victory over Capt. Cary Middlecroft of Memphis, 3 and 4, in the afternoon round.

In the lower bracket, Bishop, who eliminated former champion Jack Chapman, 2 and 1, in yesterday's morning round, will square off against Willits, who scored a 3 and 2 quarter final triumph over Bob Sweeney, former British amateur winner.

THE 34-YEAR-OLD Kammer as a result of his decisive victory over Middlecroft, was being picked by many last night to give the 38-year old Quick a terrific rassle in the semi-finals.

Quick eliminated Martell, Canadian amateur champion, 2 up in the first round of match play Wednesday.

The lad who hooked the biggest one of them all found his new fame short lived today. Charles Lind, a senior at Denver University, knocked out Bud Ward of Spokane, the hold-over champion since 1941, one up in a brilliant morning round only to succumb to Bishop in the afternoon.

Cardinals Blow Two-Run Margin In Top Seventh

Calgary's Purity 99 club turned in a 4-3 win at Renfrew Park Thursday, the second on successive nights and so the best of seven series with Edmonton's Army and Navy Cardinals for the Alberta baseball championship is now deadlocked at two games each.

With Cardinals holding a 2-0 lead and Eddie (Lefty) Belter dispatching Purity players back to their dugout as fast as they appeared at the plate, it appeared the Edmonton champions were well on their way to make the series count 3 to 1 in their favor when the top of the seventh rolled along.

AND THEN with Belter only nine putouts away from a no-hit job, the whole structure caved in and when the third Calgarian was retired in that inning, the visitors were out in front 3-2. They added another run, also unearned, for the clincher in the eighth.

No better pitching than Belter's for the first six innings has been seen at Renfrew this year. He had 18 batters had come up during those six frames. Just one had reached first base. Rogers on a walk in the third, and Belter picked him off at second a couple of minutes later.

BUT THINGS were different in the seventh inning. George Alexander, first up, drew a base on balls and the break came when Gully grounded to Lane. The Cards first baseman threw to second for a cinch forceout and a possible double-play, but Flores dropped the ball.

Flores little finger was injured and the Eskimos shortstop may not be able to play today, but nobody in the park knew it. Gully reached first safely when nobody was covering the bag and Alexander scored from second.

SAWCHUK STRUCK out, but Lewis fired out to Marlow in short centre but behind Second and Gully scored from third on the throw-in. An error was charged to Samis when the throw to the plate got away from him, but his run had been partially blocked by Lane.

Alex Ufleman, recruited from Bears for the game, then smacked a long double into right-centre and Lowe scored. Joe Kanik came in with the winning run in the ninth, he having reached first on an error by short, advancing to third on Alexander's single and coming home when Flores juggled Gully's ground ball.

ERNIE MARLOW'S single, in the second frame, a stolen base and Art Finney's bingle brought in the first Edmonton run and Harry Ornest's hit, McGill's sacrifice and Jack Gilmore's error meant an unearned tally in the sixth.

Cards almost pulled the game out of the fire in the ninth. Samis walked, Leo Douziech pinch-hitting for Belter dropped a single into right and Peroni running for Samis scored on Seaman's fly to right field. Tedeschi forced McGill who had been hit by pitcher Tony Maze, for the third out, as Douziech crossed the plate.

Bucky Harris Joins New Yorkers

BILL DICKEY QUITTING AS YANKEES MANAGER

DETROIT, Sept. 13—(BUP)—Bill Dickey, resigned today as manager of the New York Yankees baseball team and was replaced by Johnny Neun, veteran Yankee coach and former Detroit Tiger first baseman.

DETROIT, Sept. 13 —(AP)— Bill Dickey, one of the all-time greats of the New York Yankees, reached a parting of the ways with the American League baseball club Thursday.

Dickey said he would finish out the season as manager, "as far as I know," but has told President Larry MacPhail not to consider him in his plans for 1947.

BIG BILL'S announcement preceded by only a few hours the arrival of Stanley (Bucky) Harris, former manager at Washington, Boston and Detroit, who was slated to join the Yankee team here.

Harris, assuming his new executive duties with the Yankees, declared he "Definitely is not to be considered for Dickey's managerial job."

"I have given that uniform long enough and I don't intend to put it on again," said the former boy wonder pilot of Washington Senators.

HARRIS SAID he would stay with t he Yankees through their current western trip.

MacPhail had telegraphed instructions to school Harris from the ground up on Yankee policy.

"Treat him as you would me," were in effect MacPhail's instructions contained in a telegram that Dickey showed newspaper men. He asked that it should not be quoted directly.

Dickey gave "personal reasons, as his excuse for quitting the post and declined to be more specific.

"There's no dissension on the Yanks," he said, adding that he and MacPhail are on "good terms."

Campbell Declares Players Satisfied

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 - (CP) - Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Thursday that he could not recall more than three players who, during the league's past 20 years, did not start the season with their teams owing to dissatisfaction with the contract offered.

Mr. Campbell was commenting on a dispatch from Boston Thursday in which Bob Murphy, leader of the American baseball guild, was quoted as saying he had received "numerous requests from professional hockey players to form an organization similar to the baseball guild."

THE N. H. L. president said it would be interesting to know the alleged causes of dissatisfaction on the part of the players referred to by Mr. Murphy.

"If there is a sound basis for complaint I have not the slightest doubt it can be adjusted without the intervention of a union or guild," he added.

TO "DO SOMETHING" ABOUT HOCKEY NOW

BOSTON, Sept. 13 -(AP) —Bob Murphy, leader of the American Baseball Guild, aims to "do something for hockey players."

"Expanding baseball program has been drawn yet." Murphy said Thursday that he had received "numerous requests from professional hockey players to form an organization similar to the baseball guild."

He added that he had talked with quite a few players of several hockey clubs" and had received letters from many of them.

"They seem more disgruntled than the baseball players who want a guild." Murphy said.

Demaret, Fazio Win Exhibition

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 13 -(AP)- Jimmy Demaret, co-winner of the Inverness invitation golf tournament at Toledo, and George Fazio, Canadian open champion, Thursday defeated Wayne Tiberman and John David of Indianapolis in a best ball exhibition match at Meridian Hills Country Club, four and three.

Demaret took top honors with an individual 68 over the par-71 course. Fazio and Tiberman, Meridian Hills pro. carded 73's, and David, Indiana amateur champion, took 74 shots.

Colling plans to leave Vancouver soon to complete his training at Calgary.

Dainty Cakes and Legionnaires lead their respective series and will be out to wind things up on Sunday and move into the final. RCAF and Legionnaires fought to a 4-4 10-inning tie in their last meeting.

MELBOURNE, Australia —(CP) —Best seats for the Davis Cup final to be held here this year will cost about two pounds (86.50) each. Top price will be 30 shillings but taxation will lift it to two pounds. Australian tennis officials are busy devising schemes to outwit ticket "scalpers."

Junior Gridders Round Into Shape

After many long weeks of strenuous training, Maple Leaf junior football club has been rounded into shape for the opening game of the local grid season on Sunday at Clarke Stadium at 3 o'clock when they meet Calgary's powerful Tornadoes in the first of a series of games.

Coaches Steve and Al Olander have had the local outfit out almost every night for the past two weeks in addition to regular workouts before that, and the coaches expect their squad to make a strong showing against the leaders of the Calgary circuit.

The Maple Leafs have a steady line that should hold plenty of Calgary plungers and the backfield, headed by Brian Dunsworth, is reported fast.

The Calgary club also sports a strong backfield which is almost identical to the 1945 edition that ran the Edmonton Canadians ragged last fall in defeating them two straight in a home and home series.

Buffalo Acquires Murray Armstrong

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 13 -(AP)- Murray Armstrong, veteran centre of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, has been purchased for between $7,500 and $10,000 by Buffalo Bisons, American Hockey League champions, Bison manager Art Chapman reported Thursday. Armstrong comes from Manor, Sask.

"Addition of Armstrong," said Chapman, "was good business. Murray has speed to burn, is a great playmaker and an accurate passer. He should get us off to a flying start."

LaMotta Registers 7th Round KO

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 -(AP)- Jake LaMotta, New York, foremost challenger for the world's middleweight boxing championship, knocked out Bob Satterfield, wicked punching negro from Chicago, in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round bout in Wrigley Field Thursday night.

LaMotta weighing 167, Satterfield 167½.

CARDS BOOST LEAGUE LEAD

Howie Pollet Stymies Brooklyn As His Pals Paste Five Pitchers

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 - (AP) - Howie Pollet, stylish southpaw left Brooklyn hanging on the pennant ropes, 2½ games back on the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals, Thursday as the National League leaders thumped five Dodger pitchers for a 10-2 rout in the opener of the "series-of-the-year."

Clawing at Brooklyn's ace, Kirby Higbe, and four successors for 11 hits, at least one for each Red Bird starter, the Cards assured themselves of leaving Ebbets Field in possession of first place, regardless of the outcome of the last two games of the set today and Saturday.

AFTER POLLET'S brilliant five-hit job on the deflated Dodgers, manager Eddie Dyer nominated George Munger, who has won two and lost none since returning from service in mid-August, to oppose Joe Hatten, Brooklyn's southpaw hope with a 10-10 mark, in the second game of the series today.

The ball game virtually was all over almost before it started, for the Cards exploded five runs in a big first-inning attack, that included a three-run homer by rookie catcher Joe Garagiola.

Before the sellout throng of 31,303 Dodger fans Garagiola's fourbagger was enough to dampen the enthusiasm of the staunchest Brook.

WITH BOTH CLUBS playing flight defensive ball, the teams rolled through four innings without a score from the fourth on.

In the eighth, the Cards went after reliefer Honk Behrman and they made it a strong showing against the leaders of the Calgary circuit.

The Maple Leafs have a steady line that should hold plenty of Calgary plungers and the backfield, headed by Brian Dunsworth, is reported fast.

The Calgary club also sports a strong backfield which is almost identical to the 1945 edition that ran the Edmonton Canadians ragged last fall in defeating them two straight in a home and home series.

Pollet, who had beaten the Dodgers three times while losing two previous starts, held them under control all afternoon while Brooklyn's starting choice proved an unhappy one, although he included two victories over the Cards in his pre-game 15-5 win record.

Junior Tennis Tourney Planned

A city-wide junior tennis tournament, sponsored by the City Junior Tennis Association, will be held this week-end at the Garneau courts. Play, which opens on Saturday at 1 o'clock, will be in the singles and double's division of both boys' and girls' sections.

This Gang of 23 Nazis on Trial for Aiding Japanese as Active Spy Ring

These 23 Nazis were photographed as they were arraigned in Shanghai on charges of supplying Japan with military intelligence and disseminating propaganda detrimental to the United Nations. All are alleged members of a Nazi spy ring known as the Ehrhardt Bureau, whose head, Ludwig Ehrhardt, is on the left in the front row. At right, in the same row, is Ernst Woermann, the German ambassador.

Germans Cheer British Plan Speed Return of Prisoners

By Frank Swanson

HERFORD, British Zone of Germany.—News that 15,000 prisoners of war a month are to repatriated from British internment camps has been hailed throughout this zone of Germany as the best since the war's end.

The indefinite detention of more than 400,000 former members of the German armed forces in the British Isles has long rankled the German people.

Now, with the British announcement that the present meagre flow of prisoners is to be intensified, the hopes of civilians here have soared. In this Westphalian town, the seat of the headquarters of administration of the British Zone, the B.B.C. announcement of the new plan Thursday night was greeted with unrestrained joy. The news quickly flew from home to home, and excited groups of residents gathered to discuss the development.

The indefinite term of the detention of German husbands, brothers and sweethearts in Britain has been one of the most serious causes of civilian discontent throughout the British zone. The low morale of the prisoners themselves has been communicated to families here through letters and messages delivered by the few prisoners that have returned.

The civilian population had been convinced the British detention of German prisoners was part of a British scheme of revenge following the war, in much the same way as they consider food rationing part of the vengeful scheme to starve the population.

Aside from the morale boost for the domestic population the repatriation scheme will furnish additional manpower when it is most seriously required here for basic reconstruction purposes.

One reason for the slow progress made at clearing evidences of devastation from the war has been a lack of labor. It is expected much of the returned manpower will be used for this purpose.

Reveal Details World Food Plan

COPENHAGEN, (CP)—Canada, as a wheat-exporting nation, is giving particular attention to methods under which the proposed world food board now being discussed by the Food and Agriculture Organization conference would buy and sell surplus commodities.

The most detailed outline of how the board might work in buying and selling surpluses is given in a report prepared by the standing F.A.O. advisory committee on economics. It envisaged:

1. For food such as wheat, the board would arrange as can be estimated.

2. Around these basic prices the board would fix certain "commodity points," which might be set 10 to 15 percent above or below the basic prices. Whenever the price of the commodity on the world market fell below the lower commodity point, the board would be obliged to buy quantities offered to it. It would be obliged to sell from stock on demand when the price exceeded the upper commodity point.

3. The board would change the basic price of a commodity from time to time, adjustments being made only when evidence suggested the long-term equilibrium price had changed.

Board operations would build up buffer stocks of food, which would have the effect of reducing short-period fluctuations in prices. Under an alternative system the stocks might be financed and held mainly by individual countries. The board and its committees would determine the basic prices and the co-operating governments would undertake to buy for and sell from stock at the agreed commodity points.

In addition to stabilizing prices of agricultural commodities on world markets, the proposed food board would also:

Establish a world food reserve adequate for any emergency that might arise through crop failure in any area.

Providing funds for financing the disposal of surplus agricultural products on special terms to countries where need for them was most urgent.

Change Phrasing In Prayer Book

WINNIPEG, (CP) — The Anglican synod Thursday approved textual changes in the Church of England prayer book and called upon its clergy to try the revisions as an experiment for the next three years. A committee which submitted the proposed changes will continue over that period and present a report on the results at the next general synod in 1940.

Most of the alterations have to do with theological points which, as several lay delegates remarked, are difficult for non-clerics to understand. Some, however, will result in radical changes in the prayer book.

The traditional service's words "forasmuch as all men are conceived and born 'in original sin' now will read "because all men of their own nature are inclined to evil." Rev. W. T. Hallam, bishop of Saskatoon, said the object of the revision was to make the service "readily intelligible."

Very Rev. S. H. Elliot, Victoria, said parents and godparents did not bring their children to baptism for "a lecture in theology." He spoke of the "harrassed look" on parents' faces when the conception and birth of their children was connected with the word "sin."

Permissive Use

The changes were approved for "permissive use" and the older forms will remain optional.

A second attempt to create a $1,000,000 fund for the construction of churches in missionary dioceses was defeated.

The lower house of the synod approved the appointment of a committee to investigate the publication of an official national Anglican publication. It was suggested two unofficial publications, the Anglican Outlook and the Canadian Churchman, be amalgamated.

Reply to False Teachings

A report of the synod's committee on evangelism announced the formation of a sub-committee "which will be specially alert and ready to make reply to false teachings in such realms as philosophy, psychology, psychiatry and religion which, from time to time, gain some public credence by reason of the personality or position of the person uttering them."

The chairman of the sub-committee, Rev. H. R. Hunt of Toronto, referred to recent statements by the former deputy minister of health, Maj. Gen. Brock Chisholm, in which "a new theory of morals and a challenge to Christian teaching" had been advanced.

Retain Liaison Chiefs of Staff

WASHINGTON, (CP)—President Truman Thursday said the joint chiefs of staff committee (Britain and United States) would continue at least until the official end of the war.

This means, presumably, the Canadian joint staff mission which was created here as an advisory and consultative unit in connection with the committee's operations, also will continue.

The Canadian mission is headed by three high officers of the army, navy and air force, and has about 50 employes.

During the war the joint chiefs of staff committee worked out or approved the major operations which led the Allies to victory. It has been headed by high British and American officers.

It has been reported but never confirmed officially the committee has been engaged since the war on defence planning and possible methods of integrating British and American strategy, training, organization and equipment.

Cold Light, Purified Water Atomic Energy Byproducts

CHICAGO, (AP) — The pleasant side of Atomic energy with new things like cold light, and drinking water purified by rays instead of chemicals, was described to the American Chemical society Thursday by Dr. Milton Burton of Notre Dame university.

Cold light, such as comes from fireflies, also is produced from a large family of chemicals known as phosphors. Some are in use to give materials a glow that can just be seen in the dark.

But light as bright as that from electric bulbs is also emitted from some phosphors when they are under bombardment of radioactive rays or ultra-violet rays. Radioactive rays have been too expensive for this kind of light, Dr. Burton, however, said atomic ovens may remove this barrier by producing large quantities of radioactive substances.

The same radiation can be used to purify a city's water supply, and at the same time to sterilize dangerous sewage. These radiations would be produced automatically by an atomic energy plant making electric power, steam and heat.

The cost of such an atomic plant, as reported by Dr. Charles A. Thomas, of Monsanto chemical plant, is at present only 2½ times greater than building a coal power station. Furthermore the atomic power is only slightly more costly than coal power.

Dr. Burton predicted many industrial uses of the radioactive materials. Petroleum, he said, may be cracked at low temperatures with the aid of radioactive materials.

Coast Yard Builds New C.N.R. Liner

MONTREAL, (CP) —Canadian National Steamships announced Thursday a new 5,000-ton vessel of all-Canadian design and construction has been ordered for use in the Pacific coast and Alaska service. To be built by the Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd., of Vancouver, it will be the largest passenger ship ever constructed on Canada's Pacific coast, with an overall length of 350 feet. It will have accommodation for 322 passengers.

The announcement said the steamship will be constructed in the Yarrows plant at Victoria, which the Burrard company purchased recently. Work will start as quickly as materials became available and it is hoped the vessel will be ready to enter service in 1948. The ship will cost approximately $3,000,000.

Revision Sought In Livestock Rules

DRUMHELLER, (CP)—Revision of the new provincial livestock regulations governing junior calf clubs is expected in a resolution passed recently by clubs in the Drumheller agricultural district.

The club declared the new rules "eliminated the elements of initiative and enterprise and defeated the real object of calf club shows and sales—that of bringing up the standard of livestock through competition."

Most strongly criticized were provisions governing the buying of calves, the drawing of lots for feeder calves and allotment on a pro-rata basis of monies received at calf sales.

The new regulations were issued Aug. 30.

See More Moves Among Diplomats

OTTAWA, (CP)—It was reliably learned Friday that several more shifts in the Canadian diplomatic corps will likely be announced in the next three weeks and may involve posts in Ottawa, Moscow and Mexico City.

Mr. Justice Davis, recently retired Canadian high commissioner to Australia, left the capital for Regina to complete his furlough but it is understood he has been persuaded to remain in the diplomatic service. He will return to Ottawa in 10 days to discuss with External Secretary St. Laurent the post he will fill.

There has been lively speculation he may go to Moscow to replace Dana Wilgress who is reported to be anxious to retire from that post where he has spent several arduous years and has recently been the subject of some Russian criticism.

Mr. Wilgress might be sent to Mexico City to allow Hugh S. Keenleyside—who may be brought home shortly—to help Lester B. (Mike) Pearson run the home office. On the other hand, Mr. Wilgress might be shifted to the east block, leaving Mr. Keenleyside in his present post.

NEW YORK STEVEDORES REFUSE TO LOAD SHIPS WITH SLAV SUPPLIES

CANADA'S PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY BACK TO PRE-WAR LEVEL

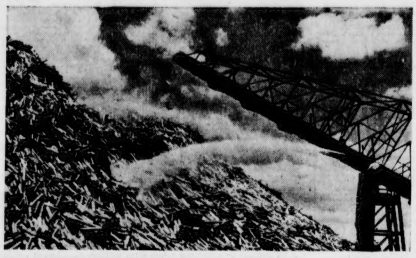

Copyright, 1946, by Acme Newspictures, Inc.

STARLET—Paramount dancer Laura Corbay adds to the beauty of a curving Hollywood beach while taking time out from studio.

LOGGING—Canada's number one manufacturing industry, pulp and paper products, gets into full swing during the summer and fall months. Lumberjacks spend all winter felling trees, trimming and storing them so that in good weather loggers can "sweep" rivers and streams to bring the precious lumber to the mills where it is processed. Working from four in the morning to nine at night, the logging crews this year are making a record drive to provide pulp and paper for publishing firms that were restricted during the war to amount of paper used. Canada boasts 82 pulp and paper companies, operating 108 mills. The industry employs 200,000. Capital investment of the combined interests is estimated at $700,000,000. In the forests surrounding Lake Baskitong, lower right, lies the source of most of Canada's pulp. After the logs are hauled to the river they are gathered together or "boomed" into a "sack," upper right. A single tug will haul three or four "sacks" to the mill. Stockpiled for winter mill operation, upper left, the logs are wetted down to lessen fire hazard. Logs are conveyed from river to mill, lower left, by a traveling belt.

NEIGHBORS—Leading Wagnerian soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Co., Helen Traubel, chats with her neighbor, Victor Mature, during vacation at Laguna Beach, California. Miss Traubel will tour the U. S. this fall and winter.

DOUBLE AND REDOUBLED—Off for the 12th Annual International Twins convention at Grand Rapids, Mich., these seven sets of twins smile happily as they board plane at Chicago. Twins from all over the world meet every year and correspond during the interim.

PROTESTS ALIMONY — Mrs. Marguerite Cromwell became news when she protested in court that $20 a week alimony from her husband was too much.

DISAPPOINTED VETERANS—After waiting in line for hours at War Assets Administration warehouse in Brooklyn for announced sale of surplus supplies of bedsheeting, these veterans break ranks when they are told that all surpluses were bought by priority government agencies.

SELF-IMPOSED STRIKE — When UNRRA headquarters in Washington ordered supplies shipped to Yugoslavia even after American fliers were killed by Slav fighter planes, former servicemen and now stevedores William and Thomas Regan refused to load the freighter, Bartleaville Victory.

HOW IT'S DONE—This group of Chinese nurses gets tips on American nursing practices from Head Nurse Rosalind McClain, left, at the New York Hospital School of Nursing, operated by Cornell University. The Chinese representatives were brought to the U.S. by UNRRA.

Franco-Italian Border Valley Seeks Vote to Decide Fate

By Paul Ghali

PARIS, (CDN)—Inhabitants of the Val D' Aosta, the valley sandwiched between France, Italy and Switzerland, have appealed to the 21 nations of the Paris conference for a plebiscite to be held on their territory.

They base their demand on the Atlantic Charter and claim the right to be allowed to decide whether to become independent, remain Italian or join France. They insist that such a plebiscite be internationally supervised, for they have no faith in the Italian authorities conducting it fairly.

This Aostan decision has been revealed by Jean D'Aztier de la Vigerie, a member of France's consultative assembly under Former President Charles de Gaulle. Jean D' Astier, a nephew of De Gaulle's first interior minister in Algiers, recently toured Val D'Aosta.

70,000 Are Affected

The French-speaking Aostans, who number 70,000, became Italians only because their ruler, the duke of Savoy, was crowned king of Italy. They want to join France, and a plebiscite is their only means of parting from Italy.

But their demand is bound to enrage Italians, bring accusations against France of having instigated the whole move, and arouse new discords in Paris.

France's relations with Italy are dominated, by rancor for the "knifing in the back" of June 1940, while Italy feels that it is constantly being humiliated by its latin neighbor.

A recent Italian memorandum to the Paris conference flatly "rejected" two of the five frontier adjustments that France had painfully extracted from the council of ministers.

Many delegates believe that Italy has lost enough territory and will strongly oppose Val D'Aostan efforts to become French.

On the other hand, if France supports a plebiscite for Val D'-Aosta, it will have the backing of the Soviet union and its satellites.

Politics Is Complication

The international conflict arising out of the Val D'Aostan demand is complicated further by French internal politics.

De Gaulle and his partisans have strong sympathies for every move that tends to enlarge the frontiers of France, while Premier-president Georges Bidault is the avowed enemy of international complications.

Meanwhile, the inhabitants of the alpine valley complain that they are being oppressed by the Italians, who have not kept their word to grant autonomy to Val D'Aosta. The valley folk say that the Italian republic has revived Fascist methods.

Despite the apparent fairness of their cause, the 70,000 Aostans have little chance of obtaining a plebiscite, conference observers predict.

They are the innocent victims of the timidity of Bidault and, even more, of the rivalry of the big powers over Italy.

Special Training Given in Case Something Goes Wrong "Way Up There!"

So that pilots will be better prepared to save their own lives in case something goes wrong, a special course has been set up, handled by flight test engineers of the training air material command, to train pilots in the use of equipment developed for their safety. At left, Maj. Leonard I. Wiehrdt is snapped into an upright position as he dives from a tower at Wright Field, Ohio, wearing a harness which simulates the shock of a real parachute jump. At right, Lieut. Jack Chrisman lands in the "freestriped manner" after "bailing out" from the tower. After the harness jerks them upright, the fliers are dropped several feet to the ground at the approximate rate of descent of a parachute.

Soviet Protests Calling on Spain

LAKE SUCCES, N.Y. (CP)— Russia protested anew Thursday against the United Nations negotiating with Franco Spain.

Her objections were voiced in the U.N. economic and social council when the 18-power body discussed establishment of a permanent central opium board for which, the council was told, powers signatory to the 1925 and 1931 opium conventions would be asked to nominate representatives.

When council president Dr. Andrija Stampar said the Spanish government "must be approached," delegate Nikolai Feonov replied, "The delegation of the U.S.S.R. will reserve the right to express its view on the matter later on."

Latin American delegates later argued if Spain were not admitted to the board, she might become the centre of the world narcotic trade "for the reason—not for any political consideration—they would support Spain."

The council appointed a drafting committee to consider changes in a proposed convention now pertaining to the United Nations powers exercised by the league of nations under the conventions of narcotic drugs Canada is represented on this committee.

It also heard a report from Dr G. B. Chisholm of Canada, secretary-general of the interim commission to establish a world health organization, on progress of its work and learned that Canada so far is the only country to ratify the agreement signed by 61 powers in New York last spring setting up the organization.

Select Churchill Training Ground

OTTAWA, (CP)— Defence Minister Abbott announced Thursday that Churchill, Man., has been chosen as the site for an experimental station to test military equipment to be employed by Canada's peacetime army, navy and air force.

In addition, research work necessary to the development of new equipment will be carried out.

Mr. Abbott said Churchill, jumping off point last winter for Exercise Muskox, had been selected because it offered conditions of extreme cold in the winter, moderate heat in the summer and because of year-round accessibility by both rail and air.

No further details were available immediately on the project which, when completed, is expected to be manned by at least 5,000 personnel of the three services.

Austrian Decree Restores Property to Jewish Owners

By Gustav Herzog

VIENNA, (ONA)—A legal basis for the return of about 4,000 "Aryanized" properties in Austria has been established by the publication of the first restitution law. The Allied Council has permitted the Austrian bill to become law by refraining from protest during the legally established 31-day period.

The new law, according to officials, is the first step in the general process of restitution of Jewish property which was seized by the Nazis. Through this law, property which the Nazis stole from the Jews will be returned to the proper owners. Under existing provisions, only properties which were under the administration of the state or provincial governments would be restored.

Must Register Properties

At the same time, a decree goes into effect which requires the registration of all properties or objects of value of any sort which were taken by force or on a quasi-legal basis since the Nazi regime overcame Austria in 1938. A law governing the restitution of such properties will be considered by parliament in October.

That means all anti-Fascists and Jews will have to wait for more than 18 months after liberation for the establishment of a legal basis for the restitution of property. For one group, the chances of restitution are not too favorable. In the last few days, Capt. Dewashin and Capt. Hamilton have demanded in the name of the Russian occupation forces, the immediate surrender of 28 buildings in the Russian section of Vienna which belonged to Polish Jews and which were seized by the Nazis without compensation.

German Transfers

They were transferred by the German reich to the German reich railways direction in 1942—44 for 2,000,000 marks. The owners in nearly every instance died in concentration camps but there are legal heirs. The Austrian Railways Direction, as the present administrator of the buildings, has protested that they are not German properties but houses which were seized from the Jewish owners by force.

The Russians stated that nevertheless they had been German property under Adolf Hitler and that therefore they are Russian property, in accord with the Potsdam agreement. The Jews were advised to bring their claims to the Russian state. The buildings have already been transferred to the Russians and rents are being paid to them. The Soviet authorities are demanding, however, the immediate transfer of the remaining properties.

Say Russia Moving Sudetens 'Systematically' to Austria

By E. Yapou

PARIS, (ONA)— The notice of diplomatic circles in Paris has been drawn this week by certain Austrian observers to what they call the "systematic transfer" of Sudeten Germans now taking place from Czechoslovakia to Russian-occupied areas in Austria.

These transfers, affecting an unstated number of Germans, apparently involve chiefly skilled workers and specialists whose service might be of considerable importance to the intensive industrial development upon which the Russians are reportedly embarked in eastern Austria.

According to these Austrian circles, this is part of the Russian occupation policy in Austria which would seem to lean to the idea that if ever Europe must be divided into two separate zones of influence, the dividing line between Russia and the west is to run through the heart of Austria.

Economic Outpost

Under this conception, eastern Austria would become an economic outpost of a Russian-controlled economic bloc. To strengthen the productive capacity of that part of Austria with Sudeten Germans is regarded as definitely feasible since they are Germans like their fellow Austrian workers and are acquainted with and acclimated to Austrian life and manners.

Austria, in the view of these unofficial spokesmen, welcomes the forthcoming discussions on that nation, as decided in Paris last week-end, particularly because although coming late they will still be in time to make decisions on the future of Austria before she is in fact divided into two regions.

Opposed by Austrians

The issue seems to go beyond the scope of action of the Czechoslovak government which is primarily interested today in the departure of these Sudeten Germans from its territory. On the other hand, the Austrians believe that while they are now doing their utmost to get rid of those Reich Germans who entered Austria after the advent of Hitler; they should not now get more Germans who, according to the exchange population plans approved by the Allies, should be going back to Germany.

It is further added by Austrian spokesmen here that the Austrian government is not being fully consulted on economic plans for the eastern provinces of Austria and that, in consequence, the authority of the Vienna regime is being undermined.

Church Campaign Tops $4,000,000

MONTREAL, (CP)—A total of $4,372,123 has been raised in the United church pension fund capital campaign, it was announced Thursday at the 12th general council of the United Church of Canada. This sum, in cash and pledges, represents 85.7 percent of the $5,100,000 object ve set last February.

The report was presented by David H. Gibson of Toronto, executive chairman of the campaign, who said the 40,000 canvassers had been impressed by the effective appeal laymen can make to their fellow-laymen.

It will be proposed the committee be asked to continue its campaign and report to the next general council, also that means be sought to perpetuate the interest of the laymen who have participated in the campaign by the holding of similar campaigns for other needs of the church.

New method of investing a portion of the pension fund was approved by the council. The church's pensions department—at its own discretion—will purchase individual annuities for existing pensioners from the age of 60 to 80. The plan does not effect the amount of pension to be paid—$20 per year for each year the beneficiary has served in the ministry—but is calculated to bring a higher interest on funds invested.

Rev. Victor T. Mooney of Toronto presented his treasurer's report showing the total current revenue for 1945 as $2,956,184. Disbursements were $2,660,314, leaving a surplus of $295,934 of which $211,-131 was placed in the annuities fund and $84,792 was credited to the overseas missions board reserve.

Yukoner Sentenced In Partner's Death

DAWSON, Y.T., (CP) — Peter Nord, northland sourdough charged with the murder of his partner, George Potter, Wednesday was sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary when a territorial court six-man jury returned a verdict of manslaughter.

Potter was shot near Mayo, Y.T., April 12 following a rich "find" of mineral claims the partners had staked.

Nord was wounded at the time of Potter's death, and later, police said, he tried to commit suicide.

Advance Deadline At Peace Parley

PARIS, (AP)— European peace conference commission, racing to meet a new Oct. 5 deadline, completed work Thursday on the political and territorial clauses of the Finnish and Romanian treaties and on the military clauses of the Romanian pact.

Jacques Fouque du Parc, secretary-scierial of the conference, informed all commissions the conference would have to end by Oct 5 in order to permit transfer of technical personnel of all delegations for the Oct. 23 meeting of the United Nations general assembly in New York.

The Finish political and territorial commission was the first body in the conference to achieve its goal, later the Romanian political and territorial committee made its announcement. Over Soviet objection, it had voted eight to four to recommend the international court of justice as the final tribunal in disputes arising from that treaty.

In other conference developments the Italian political and territorial commission defeated 11 to nine a Czech proposal to set up a commission to study the Italy-Yugoslav border, and the military commission heard a plea that Italy be allowed 12,500 more naval enlisted men and officers than provided in the treaty drafted by the council of foreign ministers.

Defeat of Romanian pleas for more liberal terms marked completion of work by the military commission on that treaty.

Editors Ask U. N. Back Free Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP)—The American Society of Newspaper Editors Thursday formally asked the United Nations to adopt a covenant to establish world freedom of information and of the press.

The proposal to open the doors throughout the world to information for all peoples was submitted to the U.N. economic and social council with the endorsement of spokesmen for three major powers.

Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain, State Secretary Byrnes of the United States and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China.

The program was first submitted to the U.N. some time ago. It was outlined to the council Thursday by Wilbur Forrest, president of the A.S.N.E.

The editors said, "It is imperative concrete action on world freedom of information should come from the United Nations assembly this autumn," asserting "delay beyond that time not only will discourage the world press which showed an active interest during the first assembly in London but will tend to weaken faith in the United Nations itself.

"We believe," they said, "that if the peoples of the earth are to get along together in peace, there must be tolerance, good will and understanding. There is but one road leading to this imperative world estate and that is freedom of information, by which peoples shall know and understand the problems of others. Our object is, in short, to spread the truth."

'Flying Tigers' to Haul Food To Famine Areas of China

By Stefan Andrews

WASHINGTON, (NANA)—A $3,000,000 transport airline, organized by former Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, will haul relief supplies from China's clogged coastal ports to interior famine areas.

This was learned when the Washington office of the former commander of the famous "Flying Tigers" mapped plans to organize a new Flying Tigers squadron to rush UNRRA supplies into China's vast interior.

Faced with a government report showing that only five percent of the relief supplies were trickling into famine areas, the China National Relief and Rehabilitation administration approved a loan to the former Flying Tigers' commander for a new airline subject to approval by officials of the UNRRA.

Financed by UNRRA

Details of the new venture are now under discussion by key UNRRA officials, according to spokesmen, and will be settled within a month. The plans call for allocating $2,000,000 from UNRRA funds toward the purchase of 12 United States C-46 and C-47 surplus transports to carry cargo.

Under Chennault's agreement with UNRRA, relief supplies would be hauled by former Flying Tigers pilots, most of whom would be coaxed back into active flying from civilian life by monthly salaries of $1,200, which Chennault was reported ready to offer.

Col. Frederick D. Harris, head of UNRRA's Chinese section, said, a "substantial" amount of the $131,500,000 in relief food, which UNRRA is shipping to China, would be handled by the transport line. The total relief and rehabilitation earmarked for China runs to $550,000,000.

Two Main Bases

Harris said final plans are being held up because UNRRA will have to "back-track" on previous allocations to fit in the new transport expenditures. Supplies already allocated will have to be withdrawn to make way for the new commitment.

Spokesmen for UNRRA said relief supplies will get first priority on the line but that Chennault will be permitted to use cargo space not later required by UNRRA to haul other cargo.

The Chennault line will use Shanghai and Canton as its principal seacoast bases and operate through to spokesmen by using the former 14th air force bases. These stretch as far inland as Chungking and Kunming.

Say 27,000 Allied Civilians In Internment Camps in Java

By George Weller

BATAVIA, Java, (CDN) — Java is the Shangri-la of Allied internees. It is the only place on earth where victory is not yet won, in the sense that Allied civilians are still forcibly held in wartime concentration camps.

Two facts stand out in Java: 23,000 Japanese soldiers are still unevacuated from the Dutch East Indies one year after victory; 27,000 Allied civilians are still as much under prison guard as they were the day the atom bomb fell on Nagasaki.

A Swiss International Red Cross inspector has just returned from a swing around the camps where the Indonesian republican army is detaining civilians. In seven camps scattered through the Indonesian zone, he found that internees were getting satisfactory treatment. But, in the seven nearest the republican capitol of Jogjakarta, he reported that men, women and children were selling mattresses, mosquito nets and clothing for food, which they were required to buy.

When the Red Cross lodged a complaint with the president of the Indonesian Red Cross, Mohammed Hatta—who is also the republic's vice-president and leading economy authority—Hatta promised that conditions would be corrected.

Gives Up Hope

How desperate the political castaways are may be judged by the fact that one woman, still held with her two children, smuggled a letter out to her husband saying, "Go back to Holland. I have lost all hope that we shall ever be allowed to go free."

Two thousand internees are Europeans, mostly Dutch, and 25,000 are partly European—all full Dutch citizens and therefore, potential enemies of the republic.

Behind what seems like callous treatment by the Indonesian republicans lies a tragic and complex story. It can be read along Batavia's streets where you see drab, dumpy women in clothing with concentration camp patches. Usually they are bewildered children wandering about.

Their homes are swallowed up in the republic's collectivist program and whether they ever recover anything will depend on whether the leftists or moderates win ascendancy within the Jogjakarta cabinet. At present, moderate Premier Sjahrir is top man and so their hopes are not quite dead.

Freedom Short-lived

Europeans who bluffed their way from Japanese camps early were often welcomed in friendly and tolerant fashion by Indonesians when they returned to their homes. But their freedom was short-lived. When the republic began to take form, the rebel army rounded them up and returned them to the camps.

Republican internment differs from the Japanese in that it is at least partly protective. Anti-European kidnappers, robbers and murderers who huddled under the skirts of the republican revolution have now, however, largely been flushed out and repressed by the republicans themselves. The crime wave is abating. But still the republicans have held the civilians in a status which the British and Dutch call using them as hostages.

The republican retort is that the Dutch are enlisting these camp-worn men in their infantry battalions, navy and civil administration as soon as they cross picket lines into Dutch jurisdiction. The moderate republicans say, "We cannot imperil our hold on our followers by asking them to understand a code of humanity which compels us to release them."

Ask Equal Treatment

The Dutch authorities say, "even our saving former internees against the Indonesians does not excuse their holding women, children and old men. They could release such non-combatants, at least. Furthermore, we have allowed Indonesian workmen from Japanese labor corps, elsewhere in Asia, to return freely to their homes behind republican lines with no strings on whether they fight us or not. Why should Indonesians not treat our prisoners as well as we treat theirs?"

The British, who are obligated to evacuate all Japanese and liberate all Allied internees before they leave on Nov. 30, are now pressing the Indonesians to free internees. The Indonesians have insisted that all military operations cease in areas where the evacuation is planned.

The Indonesians froze all emigration of internees recently because the Dutch allegedly violated the agreement against aircraft reconnaissance over republican lines. The Indonesians said that internees would be freed only if the Dutch kept their military planes flying on air-lanes formerly used by civil transport planes and avoided scouting for rebel hideouts.

Hospital Nurses Return to Duty

BELLEVILLE, Ont., (CP)—Staff nurses who resigned at the Belleville General hospital Monday in demands for wage increases and shorter hours started returning to their posts Wednesday night, after agreement was reached between the nurses and hospital board.

The 35 staff nurses of the hospital sought wage increases of $25 a month. They had been receiving $105 a month from which deductions were made for meals, income tax and laundry. They also demanded a straight eight-hour day compared with the 12-hour shifts they have been working with two hours off in the morning and afternoon shifts.

It was reported the nurses had accepted a settlement slightly below the increases they sought.

After the nurses resigned—they emphasized it was not a "strike"—the hospital with 183 patients had carried on with two trained nurses, 45 student nurses and about 45 volunteer women workers trained in first aid.

ADMIT JAPS DEFEATED!

RIO DE JANEIRO, (Reuters)—Leaders of the "Shindo Renmei," Japanese terrorists of the Black Dragon society, Wednesday signed a declaration admitting the defeat of Japan, and promised to instruct 300,000 other Japanese residents of Brazil of their country's surrender to the United Nations.

Coast Fishermen Will Face Court

VANCOUVER, (CP) — Federal fisheries officials said Thursday summonses are being drawn up against 22 large salmon seine boats that were intercepted Wednesday when they allegedly violated boundaries of fishing areas off the Fraser river.

Seine fishing off the Fraser river mouth was resumed Wednesday after a one-day strike by 160 boats in a successful move for extension of fishing boundaries. The fishermen had demanded extension, contending the fish were not entering the Fraser river and by the time they did, they would have deteriorated in quality.

The vessels were arrested by the fishery patrol boats. They were compelled to report to fisheries officials on shore. Particulars of crews and boats were taken and licences then were returned and the seiners were permitted to return to the fishing grounds.

Officials said no illegally-caught fish were seized from the seine boats but the time they lost from fishing was estimated unofficially to have cost them $100,000 in sockeye salmon they probably would have caught.

Ask Incorporation Of Trade Unions

WINNIPEG, (CP)—The Manitoba branch, Canadian Manufacturers association, in a list of recommended amendments to the existing federal wartime labor code made public Thursday, asked incorporation and registration of trade unions. The recommendations were presented to the provincial government at a closed meeting last week.

The manufacturers brief said that no unregistered trade unions should be allowed to act on behalf of employes. The federal labor minister should be empowered to revoke registration of any trade union or employes' association which authorized or allowed a strike contrary to regulations, or which violated the terms of a collective labor agreement.

A new section providing that no picketing should be carried on except in or around the working premises of a strike-bound plant and that picketing should not interfere with anyone entering or leaving the employer's premises, is recommended.

The association asks that no strike vote be taken while negotiations between employer and trade union are still going on.

Specific opposition is voiced by the manufacturers to the compulsory closed shop, union shop or maintenance of membership and the compulsory check-off. These are key points in the proposals by organized labor.

Unions Differ On Wages Paid

WINNIPEG, (CP)—Tred Dowling Toronto, Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.), said here Thursday that "Packinghouse workers do not earn as much as steelworkers." He was commenting on a report from Toronto quoting C. H. Millard of the United Steelworkers of America Union as saying that "steelworkers should be paid on a basis equal to that of men in the packinghouse industry.

A statement prepared by the research department of the U.P.W.A. says that "the $33.60 guaranteed minimum requested would bring the average weekly earnings up to approximately $39.63 which will be somewhat lower than steel, logging, mining and pulp and paper."

Officials of the U.P.W.A., and three major packing plants, Canada Packers, Burns and company and Swift Canadian limited, are meeting here in closed sessions with Mr. Justice Richards. The companies have offered the union a five-cent-an-hour wage increase which members have rejected.

Work Hours Act Going to Courts

VICTORIA, (CP)— Labor Minister George S. Pearson announced Thursday the British Columbia government, will submit immediately to the court of appeal the question of whether the Hours of Work act passed at the last session of the provincial legislature applies to the metalliferous mines of British Columbia.

"We announced last week that we had advised the Consolidated Mining and Smelting company that unless it accepted the 44-hour week ruling we would proceed against it in court," Mr. Pearson said.

"The company says it is prepared not only to put in a 44-hour week, but a 42 and 40-hour week, if any legal department can say definitely that the Hours of Work act supercedes the Metalliferous Mines Regulation act.

"I have said that we intend the 44-hour week to apply to everyone, but I can't say positively that it does."

Under the Metalliferous Mines Regulation act, the minister of mines has power to permit a 46-hour week at his discretion.

Chain Store Asks Sell Cheaper Milk

REGINA, (CP) — Revision of milk prices in Regina so that the cost of milk at a store would be at least one cent per quart less than home-delivered milk was recommended in a brief by a retail grocery chain before the Saskatchewan Milk Control board Wednesday.

Consumers now pay 12 cents for milk delivered and 13 cents per quart if purchased in stores.

The brief contended that Saskatchewan was the only province in which store milk cost one cent more per quart than home-delivered milk.

War Veterans' Land Scheme Arouses Widespread Interest

Extensive interest in the provincial government's land-clearing and settlement scheme for veterans is being exhibited by numerous ex-servicemen who were experienced farmers before they joined up, it was stated Friday by James Hartley, deputy-speaker of the Alberta Legislature and MLA for Macleod.

MR. HARTLEY is in the city on constituency business and to attend a meeting of officers of the Canadian Legion, of which he is vice-president.

He said he had had a great number of inquiries regarding the scheme, which through two contractors proposes to clear, break and ready 200,000 acres for veterans' agricultural purposes by next spring.

AREA OF THE land settlement scheme is in the Peace River district and is being handled by Lassiters, Ltd., of Edmonton, and a firm of contractors from Texas.

The project is under direction of Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines.

CULTIVATE CANTELOUPE!—Shown above is an amateur Edmonton gardener who successfully cultivated a cantaloupe which looks just as good and just as promising as "professionally" grown fruit. He is Graham Cocoroch of 11811 95A street. Mr. Cocoroch, owner of Stinson's Bakery, planted a cantaloupe seed in his backyard garden in June, along with a batch of endives, citron, broccoli and more common garden plants. The fruit is about four inches across and appears to have done extremely well in the Northern Alberta climate. They are grown extensively in British Columbia.

Cheque Artist Is Busy in Edmonton

Five worthless cheques each valued at $20 have been cashed in city grocery stores and meat markets during the past few days by a man who signs himself "Lance Shetler." Police have warned city merchants to be on the watch for the man who is said to be about five feet six inches in height, weighing 150 pounds, fair hair and wearing a fawn jacket. His general appearance is "rough." The man usually buys a small quantity of goods for which he gives a cheque and then takes the change in cash. In one case all he bought was a packet of cigarettes, taking $19.67 in change.

City Plantation Produces Ripe, Juicy Strawberries

BY J. V. O'NEILL

Whether or not the community cupboard becomes bare of cream in the light of the sharp drop in country deliveries, its rich, red, ripe and luscious table partner — strawberries — exist in Edmonton in generous quantities.

AT LEAST, that is the record of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Zaychuk who cultivate a four-acre plantation near the Edmonton stockyards. And when it comes to raspberries the Zayehuks have 25 acres of them!

Thursday, Mrs. Zayehuk with justifiable pride displayed some stock models taken from the strawberry patch. At first sight they resembled tomatoes. Seven of them weighed one pound, and the average size was about that of a lemon egg.

MR. ZAYCHUK commenced cultivation of the fruit in 1936 and during the intervening years has devoted much time to the development of species capable of withstanding frosts, rain, heat and hail, and believes he has succeeded.

Mrs. Zayehuk said that government and university agricultural officials have shown "a deep interest" in the new, hardy and juice-filled types of berries.

Next year Mr. Zayehuk intends to have about 20 types registered from more than 100 varieties he has developed from seedlings. Imported varieties do not fare as well as those developed by the cross method, Mrs. Zayehuk related.

PROUDEST strawberry of the entire company is one which Mr. Zayehuk developed. It produces fruit twice a year.

Mrs. Zayehuk admitted the work of looking after the raspberry-strawberry plantation "is pretty hard" but she and her husband intend to make fruit cultivation their life industry, and indicated that if their former luck continued there would be nothing to worry about.

An ordinary sneeze travels two or three feet.

Premature Tot Grows to Adult

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 -(CP)—Dr. Pierre Hebert, Montreal's joint coroner, possibly may hold the record for delivering the smallest baby to survive.

The story dates back to July 8 1914, when he brought Marguerite Cardinal into the world. She weighed 12 ounces.

"IT WAS ONE o'clock in the morning when she was born on a farm at St. Michel, Napierville County," Dr. Hebert said. "Of course she was premature. Six and one-half months to be exact.

"I must admit I had little hope that the child would live. However, she breathed well enough shortly after she was born. I wrapped the infant in a bit of linen and weighed her. She tipped the scales at exactly 12 ounces, including the wrapping.

"A short while after the birth, from which the mother emerged quite well, I wrapped the baby, put her in a basket and placed the basket in a heated oven. It had to do for an incubator," Dr. Hebert said with a smile.

"IN ORDER TO feed the baby, I had to use an eye-dropper. For a number of days all I used was a little milk mixed with a few drops of cognac. I prescribed that the baby be swabbed with olive oil. With this treatment, the infant soon picked up weight and she was out of danger."

Marguerite, now is 32, still lives with her parents on the same farm. Marguerite's mother never had any other children.

"She was the tiniest living human I ever saw or hope to see," Dr. Hebert said.

Mobile Library Planned Here

Plans are underway by the cultural activities branch of the provincial department of economic affairs to provide a mobile library to serve outlying centres in the northern part of the province, it was learned Friday.

THE EQUIPMENT under consideration will be a specially constructed "bookmobile" capable of carrying from 1,500 to 2,000 books on its shelves.

It will be equipped with heating facilities for winter travel and comfort of library patrons.

FIRST DISTRICT to come under consideration in the plan lies in the Peace River area and when the library is established it will range from the central library of that town to the end of the railway at Hines' Creek.

There may be an extension of the service if the Peace River experiment is a success. This would extend from Grimshaw in the north to the end of the highway at Nokiewan.

IT WAS STATED by officials of the culture activities branch that there had been requests for such a service by many residents of the northern districts.

"I Love You" Code Signal

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 13 (CP)- A code signal that says "I love you" sounds a bit out of character in deep-sea salvage diving. But when an attractive brunette is one member of the diving pair . . . well, that's a barnacle of another color.

MR. AND MRS. Elliott Bailey are one of the few "two-man" teams in the diving business and their livelihood depends upon co-operation. The 24-year-old wife of the veteran diver assists her husband in all operations.

"She knows all the ropes, that is with the possible exception of the diving end," Bailey asserted, "and I have been teaching her the rudiments of that phase."

"We lead a perfectly happy married life," said Mrs. Bailey.

"WE HAVE TO," added Bailey. "When I am down in the deep on the other end of the air hose, my life is in her hands. I have no choice in the matter."

The Baileys have a code system all their own for underwater operations. One tug on the lines means "up", two tugs—"down", three tugs—"hold it," and four tugs—"I love you."

Canadian Hospitals Forced To Close Down Entire Wings

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two out of every three hospitals in Canada have been hit by a shortage of nurses. Many have been forced to close wards and even entire wings. In others, skeleton staffs, working long hours, are endeavoring to handle an increasing number of patients.

At the same time a survey by The Canadian Press shows that there are more nurses in Canada than before the war.

Hospital officials claim that whereas the ideal ratio is one graduate nurse to attend to four patients, nowadays a hospital considers itself lucky if it has one to fifteen or twenty.

A new world which sees men and women taking advantage of health insurance schemes, receiving medical attention they otherwise couldn't afford, is partly responsible for the hospital's growth in popularity.

In Welland, Ont., there are approximately 150 per cent more patients at the Welland County General than there were eight years ago.

A SHORTAGE of domestic help and an increased demand for special duty nurses also has increased the burden of hard-pressed hospital staffs.

The nursing profession still attracts more girls than can be trained in most of the 170 civilian hospitals operating schools throughout the country, but a large percentage of them, upon graduation, turn to industrial nursing where the pay is higher and the hours more regular than in hospitals. Others find employment in military hospitals and Department of Veterans' Affairs institutions.

The nursing schools graduate approximately 3,500 nurses annually, but they cannot continue preparing nurses in the numbers required for the variety of services in which they now find employment.

The result has been an impasse which can only be overcome by re-organizing the entire profession Plans of the Canadian Nurses Association and the Canadian Hospital Council are being made with this end in view.

"The association and the council now are embarking on an exhaustive study of the various angles presented by this problem and will work out recommendations for a satisfactory solution," said Dr. Harvey Agnew, of Toronto council secretary.

"A NUMBER of other organizations including the federal government are being invited to participate in this study and it may prove necessary . . . that a considerable revamping of the duties of nurses in the hospital and of her educational preparations will have to be done.

"Much thought is being given to the development of schools for training of nurses aides or assistants, as major contributors to a permanent solution.

Meanwhile provincial governments and even the communities themselves have taken steps to encourage girls to go into the nursing profession, and to make the hospital jobs more attractive.

In Halifax, increased salary scales for nurses in the city-controlled tuberculosis and infectious diseases hospitals have been approved by Halifax city council which has established an annual salary scale of $1,080, plus living-out allowance for registered nurses.

WAGES IN N. S. hospitals have averaged $60-$90 monthly with room and board for general duty nurses. The Association itself sets private nurses' rates at $5 for an eight-hour day and $7.50 for a 12-hour day.

During the last four years the Quebec government has given between $30,000 and $40,000 a year in $100 training bursaries as well as other bursaries to help would-be nurses obtain the necessary qualifications of passing fourth year high school.

MONTREAL HOSPITALS are managing to fill quotas for nurses-in-training, but a scarcity of applications is more noticeable in outlying districts and in smaller towns.

Quebec province urgently needs at least 612 hospital nurses. In Montreal's St. Justine hospital, which this August had 145 cases of infantile paralysis, there was a shortage of 35 general duty nurses.

At Galt, Ont., the Public Utilities Commission has authorized a grant of $3,500 toward the opening of a nursing school at the city hospital.

In Peterborough, Ont., in order to stimulate enrolment for fall classes, 10 local manufacturers sponsored an advertisement which attracted a large number of student nurses into the fall classes.

THE CITY council of Owen Sound, Ont., has arranged for a vote of taxpayers on a $300,000 grant toward the building of a $500,000 addition to the hospital, to include a new nurses' training school and residence. A total of $100,000 has been obtained already by public subscription.

Applications from girls anxious to go into nursing generally have been plentiful, although in some cases outlying centres have found them scarce.

At Windsor, Ont., officials at Grace hospital report their fall class has been filled and already half of the applications for the February class have been received.

Toronto General hospital nursing school reports the fall class totals 72, 12 more than last term, and all the school can possibly handle.

At the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, applications have had to be limited down this fall to the nursing course. The class this term totals 35, double the number in 1945, the first year the course opened.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE AIDS PATIENTS:—The picture above shows a general view of the library service, officers of the Lady Aberdeen League, hospital staff and patients in the Colonel Newburn Pavilion. To carry on the service inaugurated last year as a feature of its activities the league will sponsor a tag day in the city, Saturday.

Lady Aberdeen League to Hold Tag Day in Aid of Library

An appeal will be made Saturday, by the Lady Aberdeen League for public assistance in the maintenance of the library at the Colonel Mewburn Pavilion. The appeal will take the form of a tag day.

Opened in May, 1945, by the Lady Aberdeen League the library has, in over a year, proved itself to be an invaluable comfort to servicemen awaiting the slow mending of their wounds.

FOR BED-RIDDEN patients, the Lady Aberdeen League provides a library service. Library carts containing varied selections of literature are taken through the wards by league members working on schedule.

Walking patients may visit the comfortable library on the ground floor of the hospital, and select their own choice from the well-stocked shelves. The library is open four afternoons a week.

Since the opening of the library there has been a circulation of 8,081 books. As at September 1, 1945 the library catalogue shows a total of 1,697 books. In June, of this year, the shelves were cleared and all duplicates sent to the Dr George Cassell Hospital.

UP UNTIL MARCH, 1946, league members operated the library entirely on their own, supplying their own volunteer staff. By that time, however, the library had grown to such proportions, that a part time librarian was engaged to look after the library work, leaving league members free to operate the cart service in the wards.

The total amount spent on installation and maintenance of the library up to date is $1,500.

Express New Hope In Housing Scheme

Housing Enerprises Ltd., will proceed with the Penn Site housing project if tenders for the housing units and the $30,000 paving program in connection therewith are within the appropriation made for same, an official of the company informed Mayor Harry Ainlay Thursday.

MAYOR AINLAY stated that the call for tenders would be issued immediately, and he was hopeful that the project would be proceeded with.

At Monday night's council meeting officials of the company asked the city to assume the $30,000 paving costs, or in the alternative to lease the property to the company the land and building to revert to the city after 50 years, the amortization period of the project.

THESE PROPOSALS were rejected by alderman, and it was indicated then by company officials that it was probable the project would be abandoned.

The company negotiated with the city for 16 and one half acres of the old penetentiary site, and intended to proceed with the erection of 23-four-suite frame apartment blocks this year. The work this year would be the first unit of a project which would provide approximately 156 accommodation units.

Ald. Don McKay of the Calgary City Council and executive member of the Calgary Junior Chamber of Commerce was a business visitor in Edmonton Thursday. He attended a meeting of the executive of the Edmonton Junior Chamber Thursday evening.

Report Progress In Harvest Work

Rain which delayed harvesting last week throughout the prairie provinces, has given way to more favorable conditions, and generally good progress has been made since Monday, according to the crop reports issued Friday by the agricultural departments of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways.

As a result of heavy rains in Alberta, only limited progress in harvesting is reported by most districts, but operations this week are more promising. Cutting of wheat is behind that of last year, 56 percent being completed as compared to 75 percent in 1945.

Threshing and combining of wheat in the south are 48 percent completed, while in the east central, west central and north central regions, only five to 25 percent has been threshed and combined. Continuil clear dry weather is needed to enable further work to get underway there.

In the Peace River district, the flow of new grain to the elevators is said to be retarded somewhat by the Alberta Farmer Union's strike. Following the wet weather, harvesting is again in full swing with cutting 85 per cent completed and threshing 30 per cent. Wheat there is averaging 22 bushels an acre.

Fund Organized To Aid Veterans

A fund of $10,000 for high school and secondary education of children of deceased or dependent veterans has been set up by the provincial government and was passed by order-in-council Thursday, it was announced by Hon. R. E. Ansley, minister of education.

A number of applications for assistance under the terms of the fund have already been filed and will be turned over to the three-man board for consideration.

Personnel of the board administering the fund is made up of H. E. Balfour, director of school administration, who will be chairman; James Chorley of the provincial auditor's department; and J. F. Swan, secretary of the department of education.

A full program of winter sports and activities is anticipated by the executive of the League.

Charges Airline Tries Monopoly

By S. Chavkin

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, (ONA)—A total of 17 independent airlines are expected to discontinue service between the United States and Puerto Rico as a result of the inauguration of the Eastern Airlines run on the route this week.

Most of these lines will be forced to suspend because of their inability to meet the low freight rates Eastern Airlines will fix in the attempt to entrench itself in this section of Latin American aviation Puerto Rico, a United States territory in the Caribbean, south of Cuba, is 1,700 air miles away from New York.

Although some local importers are displaying open satisfaction at the fact that rates will drop from the average 45 cents to 20 cents per pound of freight, Puerto Rican government officials view this as the first step to drive out the smaller firms and establish an airline monopoly to be shared by the largest of the airlines in this area.

Newly-appointed Puerto Rican governor Jesus T. Pinero told this correspondent that he was opposed to the creation of a situation in which only one or two companies would dominate Puerto Rican air traffic.

The governor added that he was not objecting to the lowering of fares on the basis of fair competition "regardless of which company was active in this practice." He expressed objection, however, to what he declared was a civil aeronautics board tendency favoring Puerto Rican companies of the charter privileges enjoyed by American-owned airlines. He said this enabled the lanker firms to launch the price war.

Harnessing of Fluorine Gas May Bring New Industries

By Thomas R. Henry

CHICAGO, (NANA) — The "wild beast" of the elements has been haltered and harnessed.

Ahead now lies the fluorine age. Chemists see prospects in some far-off future of a fluorine world roughly paralleling the hydrocarbon world of life—and, immediately, many strange compounds of value to science and industry. It all started with the earliest researchers on the atomic bomb.

Fluorine is one of the more abundant of the 92 elements of which creation is composed. It is a highly poisonous green gas and about the most corrosive material in nature. Although it is about as plentiful in the earth's surface as carbon itself or hydrogen, it has been almost impossible to keep it long in captivity since it will combine almost immediately with most of the other elements and eat its way through about any metal except gold, platinum and copper.

Research in 1941

Back in 1941, when research into the possibilities of an atomic bomb began, fluorine was mooted to separate U-235 from uranium. Enormous containers of gold were required to hold the fluorine, however, and the possibility of taking gold from Fort Knox in Kentucky for this purpose was discussed in greatest secrecy. Other ways eventually were found to separate the two uranium groups: but the fluorine work turned out to be so much profit anyway.

Fluorine can be produced and stored successfully in a pure form. The accomplishments to date and prospects for the future were the subject of more than a dozen reports presented here before the American Chemical society.

Because it will combine with almost any other element, all sorts of substances hitherto unknown on earth can be produced, now that it is possible to bring about these combinations under controlled conditions. For example, fluorine enters very easily into combinations with carbon, the basic element of life. By controlling the amounts of fluorine and carbon entering such combinations and the conditions under which they are formed, a vast array of so-called fluorocarbons can be made.

The cornerstone of life is the hydrocarbon—a combination of hydrogen and carbon. All coal and petroleum is composed of combinations of hydrocarbons. They form the building blocks of the living world, the units of all organic chemistry.

It so happened that carbon and hydrogen entered into combination very easily and that made possible the world as it exists today. But, chemists report, it now seems possible to form a parallel series of combinations of fluorine and carbon, with as many fluorocarbons as hydrocarbons.

Large new industries eventually will be based on these. Dr. J. H. Simons of the Pennsylvania State college told the chemists.

"These fluorocarbon compounds," he said, "have great resistance to heat and chemical action. They neither burn, corrode metals nor deteriorate. They are gases, liquids and solids. They have physical properties similar to the hydrocarbons, such as freezing and boiling points."

Has Many Uses

Ease of burning make many hydrocarbons very valuable for fuel or food. The fluorocarbons, with their chemical inertness and resistance to combustion, heat or chemical attack are especially suited for materials of construction. They are particularly suited for such uses as heat-transfer mediums, fire extinguishers, high - temperature lubricants, heat and chemical- resistant resins, anaesthetics, plastics, fumigants, germicides and fire-proofing materials.

One compound already achieved is a non-inflammable non-toxic liquid with a high-enough boiling point and specific gravity to replace mercury in the present mercury vapor boiler. Another is a combination of hydrogen and fluorine. It produces the hottest flame so far known. Still another combination of hydrogen and fluorine played a vital role in the production of high-octane aviation gasoline during the war.

Almost 1,250,000 acres in Panama were devastated by fire recently.

Firemen Save Tons Of Rationed Food

GUELPH, (CP) — Fire which raced through the General Equipment company building here Wednesday night caused damage estimated unofficially at $45,000 but in a five-hour battle firemen prevented serious damage to more than $100,000 worth of furs and to tons of butter, vegetables and meat.

No person was injured but Fire Chief Charles Vince and Police Sgt. Gordon Whetstone had to flee from the building when an explosion sent flames roaring through the main floor a few seconds after they entered.

Production of Nails Will End Shortly

OTTAWA (CP) — Production of nails will end late this month, unless there is immediate settlement of the steel strike, a reconstruction department official said Wednesday. The small flow of nails still coming from factories is being diverted to the reconstruction department to food-packing agencies, to railroads for the repair and maintenance of grain cars and to government-approved housing projects.

Mennonites Give 175,000 Coupons

KITCHENER, (CP)—A collection of 175,000 contributed meat ration coupons announced Thursday by the Mennonite central committee's head office here in conjunction with the government's food conservation program, is believed a record for Canada. The coupons represent about 300,000 pounds of meat to be sent to Europe.

The committee was advised by Ottawa that the Mennonites' contribution surpasses by 25 per cent of all coupons surrendered in Canada. Ontario's contribution was 61,000 and the four western provinces 114,000.

Former New York Actor Takes Big Part in South Republic

By H. Stuart Morrison

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, (CDN) — An ex-New York actor, who danced in the chorus of a Broadway show 12 years ago and posed for collar ads, is the most popular man in the Dominican Republic, after, of course, the president.

He is Manuel De Moya, 40-year-old secretary to President Rafael Trujillo Y Molina. De Moya, they say, is "like a son" to the president, and has been El Benefactor's protege for years. Despite that, he says, "one slip and I am out," and he snaps his fingers to show how completely.

De Moya is a man of many roles. Once he was vice-consul in Miama, and for three years he was in the consulate in New York city. His wife and daughter are now vacationing in New York.

Born on a farm near La Vega, in the interior, De Moya took an early start on life and defended he was going to go places. He and his brother, Samuel, still have the old family farm outside the quaint Spanish town of La Vega, but it's Samuel who runs it now while Manuel helps run the country.

Went To New York

Manuel left home in his early twenties. He had a tough time in New York, because his English was pretty haphazard.

"Once," he recalls, "and only once was a person unkind to me in New York in those days. Always people had been nice to me. But one night I had a dinner engagement out in Flatbush. I showed the address written on a card to a man in the Times Square subway station. He put me on a train.

"After a long time the conductor told me it was the end of the line —in the bronx. It cost me a young fortune for taxi fare, and the girl was very angry because I was so late."

Since then De Moya has gone out of his way to help Americans in his country. He is the man President Trujillo depends upon to greet important visitors at the airport, and to see that they are entertained properly during their stay in the Dominican Republic.

He has many other duties, too. He is a member of the chamber of deputies, and often is the companion of Trujillo when the president goes for one of his long late-evening walks. Trujillo and De Moya frequently spend hours roaming about the streets of the capital, unrecognized. In this way, De Moya explains, they learn much of the ways of life in their city.

Mills Plant

De Moya formerly was administrator of public works. He supervised the building of a hundred bridges on back roads, and maternity hospitals in the wild and rugged mountains along the Haitian border.

Everywhere he goes people run to greet him, broad smiles wreathing their faces. "Mi Amigo Manuel" is their proud boast when his name is mentioned, whether it be in the busy banana port of Puerto Plata on the north coast, or isolated Lake Enriquillo in the south. As for Manuel, "I love my country and my people," he says with utter sincerity.

Right now Manuel is busy putting together the first milk pasteurization plant in the Dominican Republic. It is his own venture, but he is doing it the American way.

The building was especially constructed, looks more like a residence than a factory. Modern pasteurization and bottling machinery has been installed, and in two weeks Manuel De Moya's pasteurized milk will add its contribution to the health of the people of Ciudad Trujillo.

Soviet Forces Lose 'Red' Designation

BERLIN, (ONA)—Red Army and Red Navy are no more. These designations have been proudly used by the military forces of Soviet Russia since the days of the revolution. The names have been officially changed to Soviet Army and Soviet Navy.

Henceforth, the Kisson service of the Soviet Military Administration in Germany has notified the Office of Military Government of the United States, the new terms should be used in all correspondence and verbal references. The terms Red solider and Red Sailor are to be simply soldier and sailor.

Reserve Judgment In Mazerall Appeal

TORONTO, (CP)—Hearing of an appeal by Edward Wilfred Mazerall against sentence on espionage charges came to an end Thursday after crown counsel completed rebuttal and counsel for the appellant made his reply. The hearing before the Ontario court of appeal opened Monday. Judgment was reserved.

Concluding six hours' argument in refutation of the case presented by G. A. Martin, K.C., for Mazerall, Crown Counsel J. R. Cartwright said it was important to consider the over-all purpose for which the accused was obtaining information.

"It is not a matter of looking at the little bit of information Mazerall communicated," Mr. Cartwright said. "One must look at the purpose for which such information was being obtained in breach of the law which forbids communication to a foreign power."

U. S. Won't 'Shop' For Foreign Lands

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The United States agriculture department Thursday notified cash-paying foreign governments that it will buy no more meat or meat products, exclusive of lard, for them after Sept. 30.

Department buying will be limited to the needs of the military services, other government agencies and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

The cash-paying countries will have to do their own buying in competition with domestic consumers. Their purchases will be limited to quantities which will be allocated them by the department.

The principal cash-paying countries are the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, the Netherlands India and the Netherlands East Indies.

The department said its action is in line with a "policy of returning procurement of food for cash-paying governments to regular commercial channels as rapidly as possible."

Say Philippines Officials Gambling

By Paul S. Kutighak

MANILA, P.I., (CDN)— Gambling on a "scandalous scale," allegedly indulged in by some of the Philippines' leading congressmen, is going on in the swanky government-owned Manila hotel, according to Manila newspapers.

President Manuel Roxas declared he had ordered the alleged gaming stopped, but games of chance, notably poker, continue to be played by leading government figures, it is reported.

The Evening Post, Manila's morning crusading daily, declared editorially: If a congressman does not know it yet, he should be informed that his position demands that he conduct himself in a respectful fashion so that his constituents will respect him. Nobody is above the saving grace. Having assumed the position of lawmaker, he should submit to the rules and regulations imposed upon by the very nature of his high office. Above all, he should set an example of being a law-abiding citizen."

Truckers Ordered To Return to Work

NEW YORK, (AP)—Volume of truck traffic entering New York city rose sharply after the intervention of Daniel J. Tobin, head of the Teamsters Union (A.F.L.) into the city's transit crisis.

Police reported that the early flow of trucks going to and coming from New Jersey was 10 to 15 per cent above Wednesday's volume.

The first break in the 12-day old strike occurred Wednesday when Tobin ordered 10,000 sympathizing truckers in New York and New Jersey to abide by their contracts with motor carriers and return to work.

White Court to Triangle Road Is Asked by Group

PEACE RIVER—With a view to providing highway services for the greater benefit of residents of the Peace River country, a meeting here went on record as favoring construction of a road from White Court to Triangle.

This highway, the meeting declared, is in preference to a proposed road from White Court to Valleyview. Relocation of the highway to connect with the road at Triangle was asked because, it was believed, it would traverse an area reasonably free of engineering difficulties and, at the same time, serve both the north and south sides of the river.

A delegation was appointed to bring the matter to the attention of Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works. The delegation comprises a representative from Peace River, Donnelly and McLennan.

Fifteen representatives from McLennan, Donnelly, Peace River and Hines Creek attended the meeting. A telegram was read advising of the inability of Battle River area representatives at attending. Invitations had been extended to High Prairie, Grimshaw, Berwyn, Brownvale, Whitelaw and Fairview but no representatives from these points were present.

To Defer Payment On Farm Produce

CORONATION.— According to the manager of Coronation Central Alberta Dairy pool members, J. Bruce, no cream or eggs will be paid for until the strike is over. Produce may be delivered to the creamery but payment will be deferred.

No butter or eggs will be sold by the creamery until the strike is over. That is the situation at the moment, but of course is always subject to change according on the future aspect of things.

Housewives rushed for butter and eggs in the stores Tuesday, and some stores were quickly out of these commodities. What the future has in store for consumers is problematical. There is no suggestion yet of the local dairy milk dealer stopping service. No price-fixing here yet.

Baby Moose Is Pet at Hudson Hope

A baby moose, orphaned when a large bear killed its mother near the townsite of Hudson Hope, is the pet of the northern village. The moose was rescued by a trapper, Jene Boring, who also killed the bear that preyed on the little animal's mother. The moose is seen being fed by Alice Biduika, waitress at the Coffee Pot cafe which receives special care by Miss Biduika and others of the village, the moose is thriving.

Porcupine Quills Startle Drowsy Northern Logger

DAWSON CREEK.—It is almost certain that D. Doonan, a logger here, will show less haste in tossing his legs over the side of his bed if his sheep is ever again disturbed.

Mr. Doonan recently while working on Chamaz river, 12 miles east of here, had his slumber disrupted by a strange noise. He had left his cabin door open and when he heard the noise he thought his horse had broken loose and hurried out of bed to investigate.

When he went to put his bare foot on the floor it was as if he had stepped on a number of sharp nails. He made a hasty retreat. After a few minutes he made a second try. The result was the same—considerable pain to his foot.

He then struck a match and found there were 72 porcupine quills imbedded in the sole of his foot. The wounded logger put the run on the porcupine that had kept him company beside his bed and then went through the painful procedure of pulling the quills out of his foot one by one.

Some of the quills had penetrated as deep as an inch. He used his first aid equipment as best he could and came to town for further medical treatment.

Final effect was nothing worse than a slight limp for several weeks.

Board Is Neutral On Store Closing

CORONATION. — For the time being Coronation town board is having nothing to do with an early closing bylaw which is suggested by some storekeepers, having reference to possible Saturday 6:00 p.m. closing in November.

Two petitions were received by board members at their meeting Monday. Some storekeepers had signed the petition to close and the petition to not close at 6:00 p.m. After deleting the duplicated signatures, the score was six signatures to close and 11 not to.

The suggested early closing is certainly getting adverse criticism from town and country residents, especially the country. Getting the allowed eight hours of work in as allowed by the government, with only one break in the day of two hours, is the disturbing factor.

Pioneer Resident Peace River Dies

PEACE RIVER.—A resident of the Peace River country for over 50 years, Mrs. Margaret Gauthier died in Peace River municipal hospital Tuesday after an illness extending over a period of three years.

Born at Willow Bunch, Sask. in 1883, Margaret St. Germain came to Peace River in 1893 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. St. Germain, residing in the town and district since that time. In 1906 she was married to J. P. Gauthier whose death occured several years ago. Mrs. Gauthier is survived by three daughters; three sons, one sister and five brothers.

It will be a permanent gravel-walled well and will have an iron removal plant, the project to cost about $50,000 including the pipeline.

The well is a mile from the nearest water main and will be piped in as soon as pipe is available.

Claims Vancouver Is Gabbiest City

VANCOUVER. (CP)—A. T. R. Campbell, secretary-manager of Vancouver's Downtown Businessmen's association believes Vancouver is the "gabbiest" city on the continent.

Speaking before a real estate exchange meeting Tuesday to support immediate action on a civic centre, Mr. Campbell said Vancouver citizens are not like people in other Canadian and American cities.

"They (the others) also consider a project with relat and ballyhoo," he said. "But their steam is directed toward boosting the project."

Asks Appointment City Psychiatrist

CALGARY. (CP)—Appointment of a qualified psychiatrist to handle city and school needs was requested Wednesday by Ald. Rose Wilkinson at a meeting of the civic health activities committee Wednesday.

Ald. Wilkinson proposed the employment of a psychiatrist as a means of decreasing crime. She felt such criminals should not be punished by prison terms, but instead scientific measures need be employed to remedy the situation and prevent recurrences.

Churchill Mobbed By Swiss Crowds

LAUSANNE, Switzerland. (Reuters)—Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime leader, was mobbed by crowds as he drove from his holiday haunt on Lake Geneva into this lakeside resort Wednesday. A throng broke through the police cordon, and besieged his automobile. Mr. Churchill was accompanied by his wife and youngest daughter, Mary, was deeply moved.

Church Raps Ignoring of Law In Settling Labor Disputes

WINNIPEG, (CP)—The Anglican synod Wednesday recorded its "deep concern" at what it alleged to be the failure of labor and management to interpret and act under present legislation for the settlement of disputes.

Concluding its debate on the report of the church's social service council, the synod urged both parties "to consider their action in the light of the welfare of the whole country," and expressed its hope that "a development of confidence, good will and a sense of the duty of service to world-wide need will secure a greater measure of justice for all parties and consequent industrial peace."

Passing an additional resolution made by Dr. F. C. Flanagan of Montreal, the synod also endorsed the principle of collective bargaining and commended the findings of Mr. Justice Rand of the Canadian supreme court in the dispute last winter between the Ford Motor Company and the United Automobile Worker's union. Mr. Justice Rand ordered that every employee, union and non-union, be allowed to vote before strike action is taken, and that in case of a strike, by a minority the union would be subject to temporary suspension of check-off privileges. It was also ruled that though membership was voluntary, all employees must pay to the union dues collected by the company.

Reject Divorce Move

At an evening session, the lower house of the synod coincided its debate on a proposed canon which would have allowed innocent parties in divorce cases to remarry within the church. The canon was defeated after heated debate, and a motion was passed in its place which referred the matter to the marriage and divorce committee for further study. A report will be made at the next session of the synod in 1949.

Very Rev. Spencer Elliot of Victoria said "the moment of post-war upheaval is not the moment for the church of God to change its position on a most serious matter."

Monty Aids Publicity

Viscount Montgomery indirectly gave impetus to plans for the creation of a public relations department by the Anglican synod.

A proposed canon establishing the department was delayed by rufled delegates following a remark by Very Rev. R. H. Waterman of Hamilton, who said the only publicity given the arrival at Halifax of the Archbishop of Canterbury was to the effect that Montgomery had to the prelate's rank by allowing him to leave their ship first.

The synod appointed a committee with a $10,000 budget to investigate and initiate church public relations in Canada.

"TEXTILES?" says Mrs Botts,
"I Need Sheets!"
...and her husband needs shirts! And the children need underwear!
Why is there still a shortage?
Part of the answer is that Canadians have more money to spend. Then, too, there are the returned service men, many of them starting or re-establishing homes of their own.
Another part of the answer is that many Canadian industries which use cotton in their products are again gathering momentum on civilian supplies and are building up their working inventories. Meanwhile our 10,000 workers are doing their utmost to catch up on both civilian and industrial demands.
As long as the present tremendous demands and relative shortages continue, we shall go on distributing our products on a quota basis.

Nurses Quit Again Unless Pay Raised

BELLEVILLE, Ont., (CP) — Resignation of 33 staff nurses at the Belleville General hospital will be repeated Oct. 16 if the board of governors does not meet their requests for increased salaries, shorter hours and other concessions, it was announced Thursday.

The nurses returned to duty after leaving the hospital short-handed by their resignation Monday. The governors had refused a $25-a month increase, an eight hour day, free hospitalization and 12 days' sick leave a year.

Both parties agreed to a contract running until Oct. 16, granting a $20-a-month increase retroactive to Sept. 1. The further $5 increase and other requests will be considered.

Housing, Meat Top Shortages in U.S.

NEW YORK, (AP)—Meat is the scarcest food item in the United States larder; hundreds of thousands of workers are unemployed in strike-hit American cities, and the housing shortage has reached critical proportions in many communities. These facts were disclosed Friday in a country-wide survey.

Samplings of conditions in cities from coast to coast also showed that the family larder was short of sugar, soaps, fats and oils.

This is the situation in some of the leading United State cities:

New York—Food: Only about 55 percent of retailers have meat for sale. Housing: Highly critical. Strikes: Port at standstill through maritime strike. Truck strike cutting food supplies.

Washington, D.C. — Food: Meat fast dwindling, with sugar and shortening equally scarce. Housing: Individuals needing adequate living quarters estimated "in excess of 100,000."

San Francisco — Food: Meat scarcest. Chamber of Commerce estimates housing is short 35,000 family units.

Chicago—Food: Meat scarcest food in this important livestock centre.

Detroit—Food: Beef hardest food to get. Strikes: One factory shut with 5,000 idle. Housing: City housing commission predicts demand for 20,000 to 25,000 units.

Minneapolis — Food: Meat scarcest food. Housing: Immediate need for 15,000 units.

See Early Alliance Of Egypt, Britain

CAIRO, Egypt, (AP) — Premier Ismail Sidka Pasha Thursday announced a reshuffling of his cabinet and well-informed Egyptian sources predicted a new British-Egyptian alliance would be signed before Oct. 1.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, (Reuters) —Loufty Sayed Pasha, Egyptian vice-premier said he expected Anglo-Egyptian treaty negotiations to be concluded by the end of September.

A new Egyptian note on the Sudan has been drafted he said, maintaining Egypt's demand for unity of the two countries under the Egyptian crown.

The talks, aimed at a new treaty to replace that of 1936, broke down three weeks ago when Egypt rejected British proposals.

Current stocks, however, were lower than last year when the aggregate was 197,736,505 bushels.

Deliveries of wheat from farms in the prairie provinces continued heavier during the week ended Sept. 5, the total of 19,021,794 bushels comparing with 14,581,051 in the preceding week. The deliveries of coarse grains also were heavier.

Report Albanians Mass Near Greece

NEW YORK, (CP) — The Times said Thursday in a Rome dispatch Albania during the last few weeks has been concentrating "large forces" on the Greek border, "including two Russian infantry regiments."

Greek spokesmen have charged Albania with strengthening military preparations in a move aimed at Greece, but the Times dispatch gave the first detailed picture of the nature of the alleged militarism.

Can't Remember Admitting Killings

WINDSOR, Ont., (CP)—Ronald George Sears, 18, alleged to be the "slasher" who killed two men and wounded three others in knife attacks, took the stand Thursday at his trial for murder and said he remembered nothing about signing confessions which police said he made.

Sears is being tried for the murder of Sgt. Hugh Blackwood Price in August, 1945. He also is charged with a second murder and with two attempted murders. The statements concern all five cases.

Crown Attorney E. C. Awrey said he would attempt to prove Sears stabbed Price after the soldier made indecent proposals to him (Sears).

During Thursday's testimony the assize court jury was excluded. Mr. Justice Wells will rule on the admissibility of the statements.

Sears said he remembered being questioned by detectives July 6, the night of his arrest. During this questioning he denied having anything to do with the stabbings of Joseph Gelenscer and Alexander Voligny, two of the men attacked by the "slasher," he testified.

After this questioning he had been returned to the cells. He remembered that sometime later he was with the detectives again but could recall none of their questions and none of his answers.

In cross-examination by crown attorney Awrey, Sears identified the signatures on the statements as his own but repeated his mind was a blank regarding events after 9:00 p.m. July 6. He was arrested about 6:00 p.m.

Ex-Champion Held On Drug Charge

NEW YORK, (AP)—Barney Ross, 37, former holder of two world boxing championships and, as a marine corporal, a hero of the Guadalcanal campaign, has voluntarily surrendered to federal authorities in order to take a drug addiction cure at the United States public health hospital at Lexington, Kentucky.

Ross told reporters that "through no fault of mine" he began taking drugs after being in hospital at Guadalcanal for shock and malaria.

The former fighter was placed under technical arrest on a charge of illegal possession of drugs by Col. Garland Williams, district supervisor of narcotics for the treasury department.

Your Baby And Mine

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELORED

Every parent has been annoyed at times by the exhibitionist behavior of her offspring. She has visitors and wants to talk to and listen to them and her children refuse to get out of the public eye. They caper in front of the guests, acting silly, turning handsprings or somersaults, asking questions, making faces, expecting to hold their attention by any means.

A mother goes to call her child, instead of playing happily with her children, hangs onto her, won't be budged from her side and cries when urged to get aquainted with the children.

And one has to mention here the child who can't see his or her mother at the telephone without deluging her with questions or demands, anything to get her attention away from her own affairs and concentrate on his.

Mrs. M. McL. thought readers might be interested in how she handled successfully just such a case of show-offism.

"My oldest boy is 2½," she writes, "and we have a baby of nine months. About a month ago when I was entertaining a friend he became very annoying with his constant demand, 'Look at me Mummy. Look what I am doing,' etc.

"Finally, I called him to me and put my arms around around him and kissed him several times and said, 'Mummy loves you, darling. You don't need to turn somersaults. Mummy loves you very much.'

'Okay', he said and went away quite happily to play by himself.

"I don't mean to imply that the same thing never happened again; but I always handled it the same way. I never let a day go by without telling him how much I love him. The result has been that he loves his baby brother, shows him every kindness and consideration and has developed no symptoms of jealousy."

How much nicer a way this is than for a parent to scold and rant at the child and ask the world at large what they would do with such a one? All that most children need, to be as good as any "unfinished" individual can be, is to feel secure in the affection of their parents. Even the nicest, most conscientious parents often forget to give them any confirmation of this fact.

Why Grow Old?

Of course, correct speech is very important to Actress Arlene Dahl. But it's important to you, too, if you want to be charming. Try the vowels, as Miss Dahl is doing above.

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A WOMAN'S VOICE has a great effect on the aura of charm which she creates.

Sometimes a voice is so magnetic that this characteristic alone is enough to make one fascinating. Not many of us are blessed with such a glamorous medium of expression but we can all improve the attractiveness of our speech.

High pitched, squeaky voices could be toned down if their owner's gave thought to it. A few lessons in voice culture, taken from an expert, would do wonders for any of us and especially for extreme cases. The way we place our voice is important.

MANY PEOPLE speak indistinctly, mumbling rather than throwing their voices outward. This is always a great handicap because few persons are so interesting that others will gladly strain to hear the things they say. Letters and syllables should be sounded plainly and the beauty of speech is lost when the "ings" are dropped.

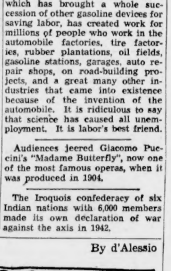

Clear, well-enunciated speech is more difficult for southerners than for northerners because long habit and tradition have given them lazy tongues. For instance, one is more likely to hear the "ings" dropped in the south than in the north although lovely, soft, well-modulated voices are no rarity in southern climes. I, myself, am a southerner and know that we have to watch out for lazy enunciation.

MANY PEOPLE have the habit of speaking with their heads slightly ducked or of turning their heads away as they speak. It is hard enough to put ourselves and our ideas over without making it more difficult by speaking in a muffled indifferent way. It will pay us big dividends in personality if we will improve the tone of our voices and the enunciations and clearness of our speech.

It is fine practice to sound the vowels clearly and consecutively. Try saying E A I O U, and then E O U I and each vowel stand out clearly and gradually increasing the speed with which you pronounce them.

IF YOU WISH to have my deep breathing exercises which are not only relaxing but which will help with breath control, send a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 26 "Fountain of Youth" to Josephine Lowman in care of THE EDMONTON BULLETIN.

Some labor-saving machines have created more jobs for laborers than they displaced with the machine. The invention of the automobile, which has brought a whole succession of other gasoline devices for saving labor, has created work for millions of people who work in the automobile factories, tire factories, rubber plantations, oil fields, gasoline stations, garages, auto repair shops, on road-building projects, and a great many other industries that came into existence because of the invention of the automobile. It is ridiculous to say that science has caused all unemployment. It is labor's best friend.

Dorothy Dix Says

A bride-to-be asks if I will discuss in this column the things that will enable a husband and wife to have a good life together.

WELL, DAUGHTER, you know the old proverb which says that nothing succeeds like success and the one thing that can be guaranteed to make any marriage a success is for the husband and wife to determe to make it one, come hell or high water.

The next rule for making marriage a peace conference, instead of a cat and dog fight is for husbands and wives to take each other "as is" instead of trying to make each other into something nearer to their hearts' desire. It can't be done, but it is first aid to alienation of the affections, for there is nothing that husbands and wives so bitterly resent as criticism, or even suggestions, from their mates.

HAVE THE SAME objectives. Nothing really binds a couple together so tightly as to have the same ambitions and work for the same ends. As long as a husband and wife can talk shop together, they never bore each other. Working partners are life partners.

Take a lesson from the birds. When you get married, build your own nest. Don't go to live with anyone who is a member of the family even by remote control.

Grant each other a reasonable amount of liberty. After all, freedom is the eternal passion of the human heart and no girl would get married if she knew she was selling herself into slavery and every man would step high, wide and handsome around the altar if he even suspected that he never again would be able, after he was married, to make a single move without asking his boss's permission.

Above all, If you want your marriage to be a good life, watch your tongue. The things we don't say save many a divorce.

Deal out the soft soap with a liberal hand. Flattery is needed more in marrige than anywhere else. As long as a wife tells her husband how handsome and fascinating he is, he doesn't have to hunt up any other woman to salve his ego and as long as a husband tells his wife what beautiful hands she has, she will work them to the bone for him.

Above all, if you want your marriage to be a good life, watch your tongue. The things we don't say save many a divorce.

"STILL snubbing Jim Hallock, Sally?" Carolyn asked casually.

Sally felt the blood rush to her cheeks and tried to answer indifferently, but it wasn't too convincing. "I haven't seen Doctor Hallock to talk to in days, Carolyn. And I don't think I snub him."

"He thinks you do, and it's really too bad, because he's such a fine young man. I'm very fond of Jim—Dick likes him, too, don't you, darling?"

"Fine chap. He's going into the service very soon now, I hear. He seems eager to go. I hope he comes back safely. After this mess is over there is going to need his sort. There aren't too many of them."

Sally said nothing for a moment. She was hoping against hope that Blair Canfield's name would not be brought up and as if her very fear generated the thought, Richard Gregory said sympathetically:

"So many fine young men will not come back. Of course there are any number of the missing who later are found in concentration camps or stranded on uninhabited atolls far off the beaten track and most of them appear none the worse for the experience. I have found it a very good idea to hang one—not to give up hope."

"But, Dick," Carolyn protested, "Sally was a child and Blair couldn't have been much more when he went away. What do youngsters of seventeen or eighteen know of love? They might not even like each other now. Have you ever thought of that, Sally?"

"Why must we talk about it?" Sally asked wretchedly.

"BECAUSE it is spoiling your life, darling," the young physician persisted. "Dick is going to see what he can do about it. He has ways and means of finding out things and perhaps your Blair is alive somewhere. If so, you should know and if he actually is dead—why, then you can put him completely out of your mind and life. I don't mean to sound callous, darling; but you are too young to spend all your life grieving over a childish romance."

"I'll find out what I can, Sally," Richard Gregory promised her, "and will let you know as soon as I have anything definite to report."

Sally said nothing. Her heart was lead—her mind in a turmoil. What had she done? This Richard Gregory would discover there was no aviator by the name of Blair Canfield lost in the Pacific at the beginning of the war. Then what? Just what did that make her? She heard the clock in the hall chime ten and stood up.

"I've got to go, Carolyn," she said and scarcely recognized her own voice. "I'm on a very special case right now—Doctor Channing —and there are certain things I must do tonight. The dinner was delicious, Mrs. Bacon, and I have enjoyed meeting you, Mr. Gregory."

"May I walk back to the hospital with you, Sally?" Carolyn's fiance asked as she slipped into her light coat.

"It really isn't necessary," she demurred. "I don't mind going alone—I'm not the least bit timid —"

"I can believe that," the young man grinned. "But just the same I want to go, if I may."

"Of course you may," Carolyn told him. "Good night, darling, and when you see Jim Hallock, be a little kind to him. He deserves it."

SALLY said good night and the two started out on the long walk back to the hospital. They had gone scarcely two blocks when Richard Gregory asked softly: "Just what is there about this Blair Canfield, Sally? Just why do you want me to keep hands off?"

And because Sally was upset and at the end of her rope, she blurted out the whole story almost in one breath. The hand on her elbow pressed gently and the voice that had haunted her for weeks murmured sympathetically:

"I think I understand, my dear. You're not the stuff of which successful liars are made, hence your feeling of embarrassment and shame. But you haven't committed a very heinous crime, Sally. I doubt if anyone, even the man himself—were such a person in existence—could find it in his heart to censure you. My advice to you is to forget it—the entire affair. Put Blair Canfield—and that name sounds strangely familiar to me somehow—entirely out of your life. What about this young Hallock? He seems a fine chap and Carolyn thinks he's fond of you."

"No!" the girl cried. "Don't you see? He knows about—he thinks—he's heard—"

"That's all right," the man said evenly. "Competition is often a very good thing."

"Shall you tell Carolyn, Mr. Gregory?" she asked dubiously.

"Why should I?" he countered. "And why not waive formalities, Sally? After all, I'm going to marry one of your best friends. Dick is very easy to say and I want us to be friends. No, I shall be quite unsuccessful in getting any information regarding Blair Canfield—possibly even prove conclusively that he is dead. It shall be our secret. So?y. No one else need ever know. Feel better?"

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

In the world championship Masters pair event this year there was unquestionably the strongest field in the history of the game. Every member of the first four pairs was a Life Master. Charles J. Solomon and Sidney Silodor of Philadelphia had a comfortable lead of 35½ points over the second place pair, Miss Ruth Sherman and Lee Hazen of New York. Seven points behind them were Morrie Elis and Waldemar von Zedtwitz of New York, while George Rapee and A. M. Barnes of New York finished fourth.

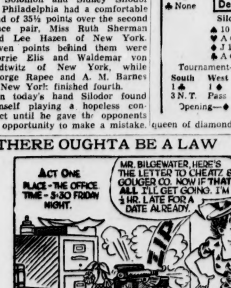

In today's hand Silodor found himself playing a hopeless contract until he gave the opponents an opportunity to make a mistake.

West cashed the ace, king and queen of diamonds; East discarded the four and then the deuce of spades. Silodor (South) won the fourth diamond with the jack, and the lead of the ace of clubs disclosed the bad break in that suit. Next he played the queen of clubs, cashed the ace and queen of hearts, and at this point he led a small spade toward dummy.

West, who was anxious to get in and cash his good diamonds, played the king—and bingo, his partner had to win with the ace. Now of course Silodor made his contract.

* * *

West's play was a careless one, but it never dawned on him that his partner had blanked down to the ace. It would have been difficult for him to slay off the spade, and that was what Silodor was counting on.

Warns Dairymen On Cattle Care

A warning to dairy farmers that cows allowed to range without being milked regularly are likely to reduce their productive capacity in following lactation periods, was issued Thursday by provincial dairy commissioner D. H. McCallum.

He observed that with present delivery conditions affected by the farmer strike there might be a tendency on the part of some farmers to allow their dairy cows to range without being milked.

He said that unless cows were milked regularly they would dry quickly and at later freshening periods would have the characteristic of not giving the same volume of milk.

Veteran Students To Receive Courses

Twelve war veteran dental students who had protested against being dropped from the rolls at the University of Alberta owing to lack of accommodation and laboratory equipment, will be able to continue their courses, it was learned Thursday.

Members of the university board of governors have obtained assurance from the provincial government that it will endeavour to secure equipment now lacking at the university dental laboratory through exercise of its priority right.

It was pointed out by officials it was not a question of discrimination against veterans that led to the reduction of the class by 12 students but the absence of equipment and facilities.

Officials at the federal department of veterans affairs here conferred with university and provincial government authorities on the problem, and the 12 students are now said to have received definite assurance they will be able to start the second year of their courses.

The 12 students had completed the first year of a three-year course. They had obtained the requisite passing marks although they were the lowest in marks among the successful students.

INFLATION is no respecter of persons. Like the rain, it falls on the just and the unjust alike.

If, through free and careless spending, inflation should descend upon Canada as it has upon many other nations, its evil would fall upon everyone.

Upon the shiftless, the thriftless, and the black market patrons . . . Yes . . .

But inflation's evil would fall equally on the "just"—those decent, honest, prudent citizens who observe the law and do not seek to satisfy selfish whims to the detriment of the community.

These, fortunately, are Canada's majority . . . these are Canada's No. 1 citizens. In their hands lies victory over inflation.

Here are their five cardinal points in personal financing:

- Hold on to Victory Bonds and Certificates.
- Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available.
- Avoid black market purchases.
- Keep up insurance.
- Build up savings accounts.

OMIGOSH, BEWARE:—Watch your step today. It is Friday the Thirteenth, a day which many consider the acme of all that is unlucky. Don't walk under ladders. If you meet a red headed woman go right back to bed and stay there. No good will come of the encounter, and you may find yourself at the bottom of an open manhole you failed to see. Keep your fingers crossed throughout the day to ward off the jinx and thank your lucky stars that there is only one other Friday the Thirteenth this year, Dec. 13.

Air Command Here Will Mark Battle

On Sunday, Sept. 15, officers and airmen from North West Air Command will hold a special church parade to commemorate the climax of the Battle of Britain, when fighter pilots of the RAF and RCAF destroyed 183 enemy aircraft, com mand headquarters announced Fri day.

The Protestant service will be held in Robertson United Church, 102 avenue and 123 street at ten a.m., where the service will be conducted by Flt. Lt. E. W. S. Gilbert, and the minister of the church, the Rev. Angus J. MacQueen, Sqdn. Ldr. F. W. McLean, the command Protestant chaplain will deliver the address.

The Roman Catholic service, also at ten a.m., will take place in St. Joseph's Cathedral, 113 street and Jasper avenue. The Command Roman Catholic chaplain Sqdn. Ldr. T. P. Coyne, will conduct the service.

Following the service, at 10:45 the parade will fall in outside St. Joseph's Cathedral, and march along Jasper avenue to the market square where the parade will be dismissed.

Ex-RCAF personnel are cordially invited to attend both services. Members of the RCAF reserve may wear their uniforms.

Declares Strikes "Self-Protection"

"The right to strike is a weapon that laborers dare not give up" stated Elmer Roper, MLA, in an address before the Lions Club in the Macdonald hotel Thursday. Mr. Roper went on say that every worker would like to avoid strike because they hurt everyone, but is forced to revert to that action as a measure of self-protection.

He pointed out that one of the best ways to help take the problem of industrial relations out of the arena of struggle and place it in the field of reason was for the general public to try to see the question through the the eye of the worker.

Too many people today, he said talk glibly of outlawing strikes laying the blame on labor and not understanding the underlying factors that cause the workers to revolt.

Seek More Space For Civil Planes

The serious shortage of hangar space for civil aviation purposes will be discussed between civic and Dominion government officials and it is probable that Mayor Ainlay and James Bell manager of the airport will leave next week for Ottawa to seek authority from the Dominion government to allocate hangar space prior to the return of control of the airport to the municipality.

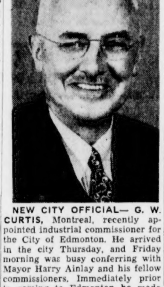

The use of larger airplanes by civil aviation companies has necessitated the use of more hangar space at the airport, and many machines are now standing out in the open while empty hangars are available for them if permission to allocate these structures was vested in the city.

Recently Dominion department of transport officials, and the city reached an agreement on the return of the control of the Edmonton airport to the municipality. The city then asked that the change be made as speedily as possible. Tentative date for the return was set for December 31 next.

Riverdale Plans Meeting Monday

After an active summer of sports and community improvement the Riverdale community League will hold its first business meeting of the fall season on Monday night at 8 o'clock, in the Community Hall. Reports of summer achievements will be given and important matters regarding the new bus service, recreational, educational and social activities for the fall and winter will be discussed. Rotarians Hear UNO Discussed

"The United Nations Organization, is nothing more than a framework on which we, the people, must build", Joseph MacKenzie, president of the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce, said in an address to a luncheon meeting of the Rotary club in the Macdonald hotel Thursday. Mr. MacKenzie chose as the subject of his address "The UNO—A Challenge."

HE POINTED out the danger of "allowing ourselves to relax and become disinterested" in the activities of the United Nations Organizations. "If we relax and slip back into the careless thinking that followed the establishment of the League of Nations after the last war, we are paving the way for another aggressor," he said.

He went on to say that the objective of the UNO was to establish a world wide order. "If we fail to accomplish this, all the horrors of an atomic war lie ahead," he said.

HE DEPLORED the actions of some nations in cloaking the atom bomb formula in secrecy and said that before nations could approach one another without suspicion, the atom bomb must be internationalized along with every other new scientific discovery.

He urged that citizens of Edmonton start the peace ball rolling in their own yards by promoting and getting behind the United Nations Society already established in this city.

GUESTS AT THE luncheon included 10 Alberta air cadet scholarship winners, who are currently students in the city. Special entertainment was supplied by Harlan Green, flutist and Mrs. H. P. Brown, at the piano.

Heavy Demand For New Ration Books

Approximately 120,000 ration books have been distributed in Edmonton during the first three days of distribution, according to an announcement by Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials Thursday. Officials estimate that since distribution commenced Tuesday morning, about 80 per cent of the estimated number of books to be distributed in this area have now been claimed by Edmonton citizens.

Volunteer women workers in the city's 30 distributing points, have reported a rushing business. In many instances, the demand was heavier than the supply and additional books have had to be ordered from the central office.

Thursday was the last day of distribution at local points.
